Dever and Curley May Be Senate Opponents Next Year...
Curley Says He Won't Back Away From Race With Dever...

Two well-known gentlemen named Paul A. Dever and James M. Curley are enlivening a dull period in State politics by their intimations that they might be primary opponents next year, thus providing the subject for interesting speculation and conjecture by the politicos.

For the first time in his long and amazing career, Curley is having difficulty convincing even his own friends and followers that he means it when he says he is going to run for public office, but the elder statesman of Democratic politics insists that he's going to seek a seat in the U. S. Senate next year—irrespective of who else may be in the fight.

Furthermore, says Mr. Curley, he'll bid for his party's nomination for the Senate at the Democratic State convention next June, if such a convention is held, and if he's denied the convention's endorsement (as undoubtedly he would be) he'll carry his fight to the people in the primary.

What Curley is asserting in his diplomatic, silver-tongued tones is that he will not step aside if ex-Governor Dever decides to run for the Senate. For those who have not been paying close attention to the political pronouncements a little explanation may be necessary.

The Sad News Is Out

Tax Bills Being Mailed About Month Earlier Than Last Year

The first of approximately 25,000 real and personal property tax bills were being mailed out this week, Collector Archi R. Whitman has reported. This is about a month earlier than last year when the first bills were mailed out at the end of September and the date for payment, without penalties, had to be advanced to November 1 dead-line.

Mailed out Monday were personal property bills to residents, whose last initials are A and B. Real estate bills will also be mailed out alphabetically. The task of distributing about 24,000 real estate and 1200 personal property bills will require about three weeks, it is estimated.

Persons entitled to veterans' exemptions were reminded that applications for the abatements must be filed by October 1. Disabaled veterans are entitled to an exemption of $2000 on their homes.

A total of nearly $10,000,000 in real estate taxes and nearly $700,000 in personal property taxes will be collected this year. The earlier mailing of bills probably will make it unnecessary to borrow any more money in anticipation of taxes, Mr. Whitman said. So far this year the city borrowed $4,000,000 for running expenses while last year a total of $5,000,000 had to be borrowed, pending the collection of current taxes.

Approximately $600,000 in motor vehicle excise bills have been sent out so far this year for about 25,000 cars, it was stated.

Placement Tests At H. S. Sept. 10

Pupils transferring from private and parochial schools to the tenth grade of the Newton High School will take placement tests to be given Thursday, September 10, at 8:30 a.m.

Registration for these tests should be made Tuesday, September 8, or Wednesday, September 9, in the Guidance Office at the high school. A record of ninth-grade work should be submitted at time of registration.

Other pupils transferring from schools outside of Newton may register on September 8, 9, 10, or 11 in the Guidance Office. Applications for conferences about programs of study for next year may be made by telephoning L.A. 7-6267.

Public Hearing On Proposed East-West Toll Highway to Be Held At E. Cambridge Sept. 17

Plans to Be Exhibited at That Time

Announcement is made today by the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority that a public hearing in connection with the proposed route of the Turnpike authorized under Chapter 354 of the Acts of 1952 will be held in the Superior Court, County Building at East Cambridge on Thursday, September 17 at 2 o'clock.

The plans for the proposed route will be on exhibition that day from 12 noon.

According to an announcement by William F. Callahan, chairman of the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, "motorists will have eight lanes to drive over either way on the new East-West Massachusetts toll highway, which will relieve the Worcester Turnpike of much of the through traffic now clogging it."

Continuing he said: "Our plans call for 177 bridges on the new road, of which 127 will cross over city and town roads and 50 over streams, railroads and interchanges. We will ask local officials at each of the 127 bridges for an estimate of future traffic growth in their area and the width of the local roads will be permanently determined by the length of the bridge overhead, in order to eliminate possible traffic bottlenecks.

"Architecturally, the cross-state highway will be one of the most beautifully landscaped turnpikes in the nation and will incorporate new engineering features designed to reduce the noise level materially."

A description of the new turnpike included in the statement by the Authority chairman set the width of the right-of-way along the 123 mile Weston to New York state route as 200 to 300 feet. From the Nickerson Field terminus to Framingham, the roadway will have six 12-foot lanes plus two 10-foot shoulders.

From the Nickerson Field terminus to Framingham, the roadway will have six 12-foot lanes plus two 10-foot shoulders.

Two noise-reducing features will be the planting of trees and shrubbery along the road to absorb and muffle vehicular noise and the establishment of a maximum 3 per cent grade, eliminating the need for noisy gear shifting to get to a hill top.

Chairman Callahan stated that the new highway would not be inferior to Route 128 in construction. Architecturally, the bridge designs will be simple and without excessive embellishments, and the landscaping along the sides and on the 26-foot-wide grass plots, will furnish a scenic ride that will reduce driving strain.

In response to a request of the Hospital Council of Greater New York, the Newton-Wellesley Hospital has just completed a survey of the average lengths of stay in the hospital at three periods during the last ten years. The results of this survey show that the average patient spends one third less time in the hospital today than he did ten years ago.

In March of 1943, for example, the average patient spent 10.88 days at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital, while, by last March our average patient was spending but 7.10 days at the hospital. If the average stay in March of 1953 had been the same as that of ten years ago the hospital would have required a 22 per cent additional bed capacity to take care of the nearly three hundred additional patients. The hospital, therefore, would have required fifty more beds to care for these patients, and, at that, we would have been filled to 100 per cent capacity. Figuring the cost of new beds at $15,000 each, the cost to the community for this construction would be $750,000.

The reduction in the average length of stay has an important economic effect on the patient. All hospitals have been faced with rapidly rising costs and, in most instances have been forced to increase their room rates. At the Newton Wellesley Hospital, a new schedule of room rates has recently been announced to take effect this September. But the reduction in the total number of days that the average patient now spends in the hospital means that his total hospitalization cost has increased but very little —

Named Head of New Agriculture Eng. Dept. of Technion

Dr. Walter C. Lowdermilk, former director of the soil conservation program for the United States under President Roosevelt, has been named professor and head of the newly formed department of agricultural engineering at the Technion, the MIT of Israel.

This was announced by both A. Shlager of Newton, treasurer of the Boston chapter of the American Technion Society and J. W. Wunsch, national president.

Dr. Lowdermilk, who has been in Israel for two years as consultant on soil conservation and land development for the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, is author of the Lowdermilk Plan.

This plan provided for salvage of the famous Jordan Valley and the creation of the Jordan Valley Authority patterned after the TVA in the United States.

"The appointment of such a distinguished scientist is an indication of the Technion's further service to the technological and economic development of Israel," declared Mr. Shlager.

Dr. Lowdermilk, one of the most famous soil conservationists and agricultural engineers in the world, will be of tremendous help in training future agricultural engineer students in Israel. "The new Technion department for the first time in Israel will offer advanced scientific instruction in this type of engineering," declared the top officer of the Boston chapter of the American Technion Society.

The new field will also encompass farm power machinery, flood control, rural electrification, soil and water conservation, and rural construction and settlement planning.

"The Technion will provide the means of teaching the field of agriculture—up-to-date in all its essence—to the future builders of Israel," said Mr. Shlager.

"And in this way leadership in the primary of all industrial agriculture—will be provided for Israel."

Miss Bowby of Lexington Bride Of Mr. George Curtiss West

White gladioli, delphinium, fern and candelabra decorated the altar of St. John's Episcopal Church in Arlington for the wedding last Saturday afternoon, August 29, of Miss Lorna Louise Bowby of Lexington and Mr. George Curtiss West of Newton Centre. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Wilfrid Bowby of Lexington, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Worthing Lapham West of Newton Centre.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Warren A. Hunt, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in Jamaica Plain. Lawrence W. Burt, organist, included in his selections the "Grand Chœur" from Handel's Oratorio "Joshua" which was played for the Wedding March. Mrs. Ruth Clarke Bowby, soloist, sang

"God To Thee My Heart I Offer," aria from Bach's St. Matthew Passion, and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in ivory satin fashioned with a chantilly lace bodice with long pointed sleeves and a stand-up collar which was fastened with a gold and pearl star pin, an heirloom which has been worn by brides of many generations in the family of the bridegroom's mother. The full skirt terminated in a lace panelled cathedral train and the elbow-length veil was caught to a satin cap trimmed with seed pearls and lace. She carried a cascade of white alba lilies and swansonia.

As her sister's maid of honor, Miss Nancy Bentley Bowby wore an ankle-length bouffant gown of honey shantung organza over green taffeta, the tucked bodice fashioned with a wide V-neckline and short sleeves. Matching mitts and green velvet cloche completed the ensemble. The bridesmaids, Miss Eleanor Polley of Lexington, Mrs. John L. Taylor of Newport, R.I., and Miss Constance Stowe of Concord, wore similar gowns over peach taffeta with rust accessories. All the attendants carried cascades of gladiola florets to blend with their gowns.

Mr. Worthing L. West Jr., was best man for his brother, while the corps of ushers included Mr. Edward A. Gleason of Marblehead, Mr. Keith H. Carpenter of Waban, Mr. William D. Underhill of Newton and Mr. Allison W. Phinney, Jr. of Reading.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bowby chose a formal afternoon gown of pink beige chantilly lace and net over faille taffeta with matching accessories. Her corsage was of lavender baby orchids. Mrs. West, mother of the bridegroom, wore a formal afternoon gown of sapphire lace trimmmed with scattered sequins, with matching accessories and a corsage of pink gladiolas.

The reception was held in the home and garden of the bride's parents. The wedding party received at the fireplace against a background of white gladioli and delphinium. Formal arrangements of garden flowers in pastel tones completed the decorations.

Among the out-of-town guests were the bride's mother's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. Gordon Boucher of Middleton, Nova Scotia, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Winner and family of Upper Montclair, New Jersey and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Howe and daughter Miss Gail Howe of Belleville, N.J. Miss Ruth Eldridge of Newton was in charge of the guest book.

For her going-away outfit the bride wore a corn-yellow linen suit with benedictine velvet hat and bag and a corsage of white alba lilies.

Pre-nuptial fetes included a shower for the bride given by Miss Eleanor Polley, a tea for the bridesmaids given by the bride's mother at her home, and a dinner for the wedding party at the home of the bridegroom's parents before the wedding rehearsals.

Mr. and Mrs. West are both honor graduates from Middlebury College in Vermont. Mr. West having graduated from Vermont Academy and Mrs. West from Lexington High School in the class of 1948. During his senior year in college Mr. West was captain of the track team. He is a member of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity and the honorary society, Blue Key. Live, Learn, Work and Shop in Newton

Back To School

Figures gathered in Washington show that an unusually large number of school children are working this summer. That is one of the results of the increased demand for workers in defense plants and the shortage of farm labor.

The situation has school authorities greatly worried as to what the high school enrollment will have shrunk to by the time classes are resumed after Labor Day. There is no denying that the lure of jobs with good pay checks can be more attractive than the classroom. Also, rising costs of living will have their effect on parents who ordinarily want their boys and girls to acquire educations but who welcome the financial aid that the earnings of sons and daughters represent.

But the future must be given consideration. Mothers and fathers who want their children to have as many advantages as possible in the complicated years ahead should make every effort to see that they return to classes, especially those of high school age.

It has been pointed out that a high school education is an asset easily carried around and an exceedingly valuable one. It is the foundation of good technical training. Most apprenticeships require it. The better technological institutions demand it and the Armed Forces want it. Education fits its possessor for a better-paying job and a career. It makes of him a better citizen who can play an important part in our economy.

Mothers and fathers, see to it that your children return to their classes. Employers, encourage your young workers to take advantage of the opportunity to acquire education, even as you would have your own children do.

Boys and girls, remember this. It is far easier to get along with your class than to try to catch up with it later. Will your job today look as good five years from now?

It's An Ever-ending Line

If motorists will realize over the coming weekend that getting to the front of one long line of traffic only puts them at the tail end of another, it may go a long way toward cutting down the annual toll of deaths over Labor Day.

It is almost impossible to beat the holiday traffic as there will always be someone who leaves before you do. The trouble comes, in motorists thinking that if they pass one more car they will be ahead of the traffic. If they pass safely, they soon find that there is another line in front of them and the passing starts again.

Drivers who refuse to take heavy traffic and long lines of cars on such holidays as an accomplished fact are one of the main causes of highway accidents. Impatience is really the great killer because in order to pass a slower driver, the motorist takes chances which under ordinary circumstances he would not take.

As a final word of advice, if you find yourself in a line of traffic which is moving slower than you like to drive, realize that little if anything is gained by getting to the front of it. Traffic will be heavy, so relax, stay in line and you'll get there. Perhaps a little later but you'll be there.

Political Overtones

The astonishing and fabulous Curley, who will be 79 years old in November, declared last spring that he intended to run against Senator Leverett Saltonstall next year. And, declared Curley to smiling reporters, it was his considered judgment that Saltonstall would be a "pushover."

While the political seers regarded that statement as a typical Curleyism, they also realized that there is still enough political magic left in Curley's name that a tremendous number of votes would be recorded for him if he entered a Democratic primary for any office.

Meanwhile, Congressman Philip J. Philbin quietly served notice of his intention of running against Saltonstall and made it plain that he meant what he said by starting campaigning in all parts of the State.

Last week ex-Governor Dever got into the act. In an interview at his summer home on Cape Cod, Dever disclosed that he doesn't consider that he is through with politics.

He said in substance that he hasn't ruled out the possibility of running for Governor but indicated it is more likely he will bid for Saltonstall's post on Capitol Hill and declared that he probably won't announce any definite decision until the Jackson-Jefferson dinner next January.

This did not in any way upset the unpredictable Mr. Curley who promptly announced that he is in the State race to stay, irrespective of what Mr. Dever decides to do. He said in effect that he would not back away from a primary fight with former Governor Dever.

So Bay State Democrats suddenly discover that they may have an abundance of candidates for the Senate next year, despite the fact that their party is out of power both on Beacon Hill and at the White House.

The most significant political statement to come from any Massachusetts Democrat in recent months was that made by Dever in his interview last week in which he came very close to announcing himself a candidate for the Senate.

Dever declared some time ago that he would never again run for the Governorship but said nothing at that time about the Senate, and there was some conjecture then as to whether he might challenge Senator Saltonstall who defeated him by a scant 5588 votes for the Governorship in 1950.

The sudden death of Maurice J. Tobin may well cause Dever to change his mind and completely revise his plans.

Ex-Governor Dever is a person who feels a tremendous loyalty to the political party which has given him high honors. He might have been content to sit back comfortably in the role of spectator while Tobin rallied the Bay State Democratic forces for the 1954 election campaign, but he would not do so if there was no one to take charge of the party.

Despite his defeat by Governor Hertel last November, Dever is still the top man in the Democratic party in Massachusetts. He will be the one who will decide whether the Democrats hold a pre-primary State convention next June. He will come pretty close to controlling the convention, and he not only could have either the gubernatorial or senatorial endorsement for himself, but he also could pretty nearly dictate all the endorsements made by the convention.

Past experience has shown that the Democrats don't stand by their State conventions as sturdily as do the Republicans, and the Democrats don't have too many qualms about tipping over a convention choice and nominating a different candidate in a popular primary. Dever, however, would have little difficulty in winning a primary. His indications that he probably will lead the Democratic attempt for a political comeback in Massachusetts next year foretells a real battle. For Dever is an excellent campaigner and organizer and even his Republican adversaries regard him as an opponent who cannot be lightly dismissed.

One factor which ex-Governor Dever undoubtedly is weighing, as he ponders his future political moves, is that next year would offer him last chance to run for the Senate at least until 1960.

Senator John F. Kennedy unquestionably will be the Democratic candidate for the Senate at the end of his present term, since a Senator rarely is denied renomination.

That almost means that if some Democrat such as Congressman Philbin should overturn Saltonstall in 1954, there would be little prospect of Dever ever running for the United States Senate. The avenues to the body would be closed to him.

Dever's big problem, if he finally decides to battle Senator Saltonstall next year, as all the signs indicate he will, would be to get a strong Democratic candidate for Governor with whom he could team.

The man he would like to get as his running mate at the head of the Democratic State ticket is Boston's Mayor John B. Hynes, but there is little possibility that even the persuasive Dever can induce Hynes to leave his own job at City Hall next year and bid for State-wide office.

Most politicians find it difficult to understand that the serious-minded Hynes is not politically ambitious, that he has no burning desire for higher public honors, such as moves many men, and that he is completely involved in his own job of trying to straighten out Boston's municipal affairs and modernize and streamline the Hub's city government.

Hynes has done everything he can to convince Democratic leaders that there's little or no possibility of his accepting a place on their State ticket next year, but there'll still be a concerted effort to draft him as a candidate for Governor, and it wouldn't be at all surprising to find Dever spearheading it next Spring.

The probability is, however, that Hynes will not change his mind.

Mrs. Maude Mitchell of Manchester, England, testified that her husband's cruelty had caused her to lose 28 pounds in two years and produced photographs to back up her allegation. The judge, however, observed that the loss of weight had improved her appearance and denied her petition for a divorce.

Calvin Coolidge Corl, 28, was righteously indignant after Providence detectives, who mistook him for a murder suspect, twice picked him up and then released him. Calvin demanded a guarantee he would not be picked up a third time but was quickly locked up when Providence police queried his home town and discovered he was wanted there for forgery.

Offered her choice of paying a $5 fine or spending 15 days in jail for shooting a squirrel in her back yard, Mrs. Effie Fisher of Fairfield, Iowa, promptly went home, packed her suitcase and went to prison. "I hear they have rats in the jail," she told reporters. "I wonder if they'll let me take my rifle with me."

It was in 1875, when General Grant was President, that Congress last attempted a complete overhaul of the tax laws.

Now, the House Ways and Means Committee, with another General in the White House, is engaged in the same task.

It has found that tax laws have been aided to tax laws, until the whole tax code is maze of inequities and confusion.

The plan of the committee is to complete its proposed revision early next winter and seek passage before the Congressional session is over. The Committee has heard more than 600 witnesses on forty major subjects.

There is a strong demand that working mothers be given special income tax deductions for house help. Parents want to deduct the cost of high education for their children. Working people want greater expense deductions, and so on.

Business witnesses have pointed to many tax laws which hamper growth of business, and thus limit jobs.

Stockholders are now subject to double taxation. Their earnings are taxed in the hands of the corporations, and they also pay tax on dividends.

Business points to the inadequacy of depreciation and research deductions. Cost of replacing facilities often far exceeds depreciation allowed. This is a check on modernization and expansion. Some groups may get relief. The Committee has tentatively decided to recommend that young people, including college students, be allowed to earn more than $600 a year without causing parents to lose dependency credits.

Another proposed reform is to relieve more than a million people, whose income taxes are wholly met by tax deductions on wages, of the obligation of filing estimated returns.

But the Ways and Means Committee, while sympathizing with complaints of many groups, has run up against the question: "Where are you going to get the money to run the Government?"

The Eisenhower Administration wants to balance the budget as to keep down inflation and protect the country's future.

It has pledged itself to allow the post-Korean 11 per cent income tax increase to expire Dec. 31, 1953, as well as to let the excess profits tax expire on that date.

All this emphasizes the necessity of further cuts in federal expenditures. And, even if the budget is balanced, many groups believe that a straight reduction of existing tax rates should take precedence over piecemeal whittling away at inequities.

So, while the House Ways and Means Committee is working hard to bring about a desired general revision of the tax laws, the fact that much revenue will be lost in removing inequities makes the outcome uncertain.

Closely linked with future tax reductions is the work of the new Commission on Inter-Governmental Relations, which will seek means of reducing Big Federal Government by turning back functions to states, local bodies and to the people themselves.

President Eisenhower chose Clarence Manion, former Dean of Notre Dame Law School, to head the Commission. In making this appointment, it is evident that Mr. Eisenhower expects the Commission to produce results and not merely cover up problems.

Manion is known widely for his forthrightness and candor. It is certain that he will insist that the Commission go to the heart of the problem, and make straightforward recommendations.

Mr. Eisenhower also has shown he expects results in appointing Clarence B. Randall, chairman of Inland Steel Corporation, as chairman of the Commission on Foreign Economic Policy.

Mr. Randall is known in the industrial world for his ability, integrity and courage. He can be expected to approach the problems of the tariff, currency restrictions and quotas with an open mind and to let the facts developed point to the solution.

Bureaucratic agencies die hard, but sometimes they do pass away. Congress recently voted to liquidate the Puerto Rico Reconstruction Commission. It was established for emergency relief in 1935. Although the original purpose has been fulfilled years ago, the agency hung on.

A House sub-committee investigating the Veterans' Administration reports that of the 400 dentists in the Administration, 121 of them do only paper work.

Food For Thought

HOW CHILDREN LEARN TO EAT WELL

Children usually form good eating habits when they see mother and father eat well, and when grown folks make mealtime fun for small fry. Quiet enjoyment of food that he likes, and pleasant company is fun for a child.

So wise parents eat the right foods themselves and assume children will enjoy food that is served. Children's plates should have only as much food as the young ones can eat easily. They like to see one food separated from another, as they get a little older. It goes along with their sharp interest in different foods.

It is a worthwhile triumph when parents are patient with children who spill foods at the table. Reasoning and patience are better for the child than scolding. Table accidents are to be expected. With experience, a child loses awkwardness and gains good manners.

If children come to the table in a calm frame of mind, they are easier to manage. Mothers who call their children to wash hands and faces 15 minutes before mealtime have a good idea; the children slow down their pace in that quarter hour.

GOOD EATING ON THE COB

Sweet corn is one of the best buys on New England produce counters, these days. Supplies are excellent and retail prices are nearing their seasonally low levels.

Fresh corn on the cob, served piping hot with lots of butter, is a favorite of most families. But there are many other ways to use corn to provide variety in meals. Succotash is an excellent way to use up left-over corn. Combined with a protein food in a casserole, corn can be served as a main dish.

For cool days in summer or early fall, corn fits in well for use in chowders, soups or fritters. Corn sticks can be made with fresh corn instead of cornmeal.

The conventional way to cook corn is to drop it in boiling salted water, with a little sugar if you like. Time will depend on maturity of corn—three to five minutes usually is enough. Take it out of the cooking water and wrap it in a napkin to keep hot until serving time.

Many people have been successful with another methods for cooking sweet corn. That is to put the corn into cool water. Turn heat on high and just as the water comes to a boil turn heat off.

Whichever method of cooking you use be sure to buy your corn as soon as possible after it has been picked and then cook it as soon as you can after buying. Look for bright, plump kernels, full of milky juice.

Rotary Club

In the absence of President Charles E. Hilliard, the meeting was presided over by Vice President Richard J. White. After the invocation which was given by Rev. William Scar, the club membership and guests stood in silence for a few moments out of respect to a recent departed Honorary Member—Howard W. Selby.

The speaker of the day was the Rev. John Ogden Fisher, minister of the Unitarian Church in West Newton, who spoke on "Human Relations in Newton." He stated in part that Juvenile delinquency is really parental delinquency. Parents make the children delinquent. The Berger boy incident made precipitated action and focused our attention on juvenile problems and the increase in anti-Jewish feelings. Investigation proved lack of parental supervision that borders on lack of parental interest. There are several gangs and hangouts. These gangs are well organized and take great pride in their depredation. Existing agencies have done as much as they could do, but many of the recreational gyms in Newton have been closed because of lack of proper supervision and financial support to make them available. There is no authority for the responsibility of Human Relations to institute and correlate program for the betterment of our city. The ordinance now proposed covers this void and is before the Board of Alderman for their action.

Adult education is much needed if ethnic tensions are to be relieved. When you understand some one, you don't fear them. If you know your neighbors and appreciate them, you'll advise them rather than feel a prejudice against them.

Raymond A. Wass thanked Mr. Fisher and presented to him the Certificate of Appreciation for the Newton Rotary Club.

There will be no meeting of the Newton Rotary Club next Monday, as it is Labor Day. The next regular meeting will be September 14, at which time Harold Russell, well known World War II amputee veteran will be the speaker.

N.E. Sweepstakes Labor Day Night At Norwood Arena

The eyes of the auto racing world will be focused on the fabulous Norwood Arena Labor Day weekend when the popular Route 1 racing plant will present two big nights of sensational auto racing thrills with the largest lineup of cars of any track in the country.

With Red Bolduc's winning of the feature race last Saturday night the Rhode Island team has picked up further points in the famous "Battle of the States" between Massachusetts and Rhode Island drivers. The Pawtucket lad defeated Massachusetts' Wally Silva and Ralph "Trigger" Watson by mere inches after a hard fought "no holds barred" race and its a cinch that the Massachusetts drivers will go all out in an effort to regain their lead in this Saturday night's races in which a field of over 125 cars compete.

The second big show will take place on Labor Day Night, Monday, September 7th when the Track will present the New England Sweepstakes, a thrill packed program in which the top drivers from all the other tracks will compete for fame and riches. Included in the huge 3-in-1 show will be two feature races for bombers and hot rods in which 33 cars will start in 11 rows of 3 abreast in what is known as an Indianapolis Start.

A famous Polaroid Land Camera valued at $89.50 will be awarded to some lucky fan on Saturday night.

Because of the huge lineup of cars now racing at Norwood the management has moved up the starting time to 7:30 p.m. for the balance of the season.

Four Hurt As Wind Shatters Store Windows

A freak wind and rain storm blew in three large plate-glass windows in Newton Upper Falls last week, injuring four persons.

The sudden storm was accompanied by fierce gusts of wind, one of which, fireman said was responsible for breaking windows and showering with glass the ice cream parlor of James H. McManus Ice Cream Sales Corp., 244 Needham street.

Two women, seated at a table near the windows, were cut and treated at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. They were Mrs. Alice Fontannay, of 960 Chestnut street, Newton Upper Falls, and Mrs. Pauline Eldracher of 12 Highland terrace, Needham.

Mrs. Fontannay was cut on the right arm and leg. Mrs. Eldracher had minor cuts and was suffering from shock.

Two men at a counter were also injured. John Tedesco of 963 Boylston street, Newton, was treated for a cut on the hip, and an employee, Walter Murphy, of 267 Concord avenue, Lexington, had a slight cut on the ear.

A single severe lightning bolt which accompanied the storm was thought to have struck the building, shattering the windows, but firemen said the wind did the damage.

Two men at a counter were also injured. John Tedesco of 963 Boylston street, Newton, was treated for a cut on the hip, and an employee, Walter Murphy, of 267 Concord avenue, Lexington, had a slight cut on the ear.

Campaign leaders wish to stress the fact that just as during the Worcester tornado, the Salvation Army will stand ready at all times throughout the year to provide emergency aid in time of disaster, in any community.

It is emphasized that the 1953-1954 Greater Boston Friendly Appeal, will be conducted exclusively by volunteer workers, and that contributions should be given only to those authorized solicitors. The entire canvass is a case of "friend calling upon friend that all may have a friend in time of need."

Returns From Canadian Arctic Area

Arriving last week on board the Navy attack cargo ship USS WANDOT was Lt. Cdr. John C. Kenneally, Supply Corps, USNR, husband of Mrs. Claire P. Kenneally of 141 Norwood Avenue, Newtonville. Lt. Cdr. Kenneally returned from the Canadian Arctic where, based on the USS WANDOT he was officer-in-charge of cargo handling operations for the U.S. Navy sealift to the Joint Canadian-U.S. Weather Stations.

This operation, NANOOK 53, which is still continuing far north of the Arctic Circle, is under command of Capt. C. F. Stillman, USN, of 103 N. Jackson street, Arlington, Va.

Lt. Cdr. Kenneally, who served 5½ years during World War II as Cargo Officer at the U.S. Naval Supply Depot, Bayonne, N.J., was recalled to active duty in July 1951 and detailed as Executive Officer of Cargo Handling Battalion ONE based at Norfolk, Va. Due to be released to inactive duty early in August he volunteered to extend his tour for a few months in order to undertake once more the NANOOK project. He is a veteran of a similar operation last year, and much of the success of the cargo transfer has been attributed by Captain Stillman to Kenneally's skill and knowledge of cargo handling operations.

The largest of these operations taking place in the ice-filled harbor of Resolute Bay on Cornwallis Island, required proficiency not only in cargo handling, but in all phases of ship board, landing craft, tracked and untracked vehicles.

Lt. Cdr. Kenneally is the father of three daughters, Susan, 11, Barbara, 8, and Janet, 5. Following release from the Navy in September, Kenneally plans to return to the transportation business in the Boston area, a field in which he has been active since 1934.

The Primary Department conducts a ten to twelve minute service, including birthday and new brother-sister blessings, and followed either by a class program, sermonette, or special day celebration.

The Intermediate Department conducts a twenty minute service, including the reading of the weekly portion of the Bible, followed by a class program, sermonette, or film.

The Junior High School Department conducts a short weekly service which includes readings from the Prophets and a sermonette. Some services feature class debate or discussion of current affairs with an invited public speaker.

The Keren Ami (Fund of my People) project gives the pupils the opportunity to participate actively in current Jewish life and acquaints them with the needs of various institutions of education and learning, thus preparing them for community responsibility.

will be grateful for the Little League program and New England baseball, which has slipped a bit, is bound to come back, God willing. I'll be scouting these boys some day."

Addressing the All-Stars, first Newton athletic team to win regional honors, Onslow remarked, "You did fine and did the game an honor by the way you took defeat. Another year and maybe you'll go all the way."

"Your parents will be glad if you hit .300 on the books. Your Little League training is good preparation for education. Bear down on the books as hard as you do on the field."

In presenting his trophy, Sheriff Fitzpatrick said, "I hope that this time next year you're not only Mass., R. I. and Conn. champions but national champs."

Alderman Bauckman commented, "You boys have done a great deal to boost the impression people get of Newton. Little League baseball is one of the finest things ever to come into Newton."

said while pointing to the lance corporal's stripes on his fatigue sleeve, which signify a squad leader.

"These stripes give me a break when details are assigned to us. For instance, when we pull kitchen police, I act as 'pusher' or supervisor, and when we have guard duty, I am in charge of one of the three shifts, which consists of about 16 men."

"On the other hand, squad leaders get one extra detail — charge of quarters — about once every three or four weeks."

"Incidentally, I guess you know I became a father last month (May 5)," Frank bragged, "and I received a seven-day leave."

Frank doesn't know where he will go when he completes his 16 weeks training. He had a chance to apply for Officers Candidate School, but turned it down. "I'll just trust to luck and hope everything turns out all right and I will be discharged after two years," he reasoned.

Frank showed us some of the equipment he uses, and we were able to take a brief tour of most of the vast military reservation which covers almost 17,000 acres in the Pennsylvania Dutch territory of Valley, approximately 24 miles from Harrisburg.

The camp is surrounded by mountains and picturesquely countryside.

"Those mountains are fine to look at," Frank moaned, "but try climbing over them some day. That's just about straight up."

The Temple sanctuary and the recently completed Community Hall, both of which are air-conditioned, will be the setting for the Rosh Hashonah (Jewish New Year). Services will take place beginning Wednesday evening, September 9, at 6:45 p.m.; Thursday morning, September 10, at 8 a.m.; Thursday evening at 6:45 p.m.; and on Friday morning, September 11, at 8 a.m.

Two thousand worshippers will offer their prayers unto the Almighty for a year of peace and for a year of peace.

Dr. Albert I. Gordon, spiritual leader of the Temple, and Cantor Gabriel Hochberg assisted by the Temple Choir under the direction of Mr. Louis Siegel and accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Rhoda Kaplan, will conduct the services. They will be as-istent by Dr. Solomon Grayzel, Rabbi, noted Jewish historian and author and editor of the Jewish Publication Society of America, and Cantor Morton Shamans, who will also be accompanied by a choir and Mr. Arthur Fultz at the organ.

The Rabbis, Cantor and Choirs will alternate on the two days in the Temple and the Community Hall will be identical, as well as the musical portions thereof.

Services are also being arranged for youth aged 6-17 years in the Nursery School rooms, temple vestry and temple chapel under the direction, respectively, of Mrs. Caroline Levens, Dr. Martin Goldstein and Mr. Leo Tarutz, and Mr. Sigmund Hell-mann.

Letting a child make a decision, no matter how poor it may be, is one of the best ways a parent can equip him for adult life. In the same manner a child's opinions should be given consideration.

Parents can build up a mutual trust in their child by letting him explain his version of an incident before scoldings are administered and by consulting him before accepting any invitations for him. A small thing such as opening a child's mail can upset his sense of security.

Two identical services will be conducted for the High Holy Days at Temple Emanuel, Newton Centre, this year, according to Mr. Joe Greenbaum, president.

What Shall We Eat...

"Help yourself! Make your own" you say as you offer the family or guests a tempting assortment of desserts.

Two kinds of desserts lend themselves very well to self-service.

1) Have a fresh fruit bar. Set up assorted fresh fruits in attractive bowls and also a variety of dressings to go on the fruit. You don't need a great quantity of each fruit when there is variety. Offer sliced bananas brushed over with lemon juice, fresh sliced peaches, pitted cherries, full round slices of oranges, chunks of minted melon, grapes, and any kind of berries—blueberries, blackberries, or raspberries.

For a pour-over, offer a pitcher of cream with cinnamon, sugar, and nutmeg added; or chilled custard sauce with sherry added.

2) Make-your-own sundaes is a favorite self-help—dessert. Grown-ups like it as much as the children when you set out a huge bowl of ice cream, with an assortment of sauces and top pings. The main feature is the large bowl of ice cream. One of the prettiest ways to transfer the ice cream is with a very large spoon, spooning out the ice cream so it looks like numerous shells in the dish. Just follow the natural contour which the spoon makes as you push it through the ice cream, rather than trying to get it in chunks. Plain vanilla, a fruit flavored ice cream or sherbert, and an ice cream with nuts are a good variety.

SIMPLE MAPLE CREAM

SAUCE: Good on vanilla, chocolate, coffee, nut ice cream. Cook 1/3 cup maple syrup until it boils down to 1/4 cup. Cool. Whip 1/2 cup cream. Gently fold in the syrup. This makes about one cup of topping; enough for 2-3 tablespoons topping on each of 6 servings.

The President's Materials Policy Commission estimates America will use 70 per cent more coal in 1975 than it did in 1952.

Newton Building Leased by Liberty Mutual Insurance

Lease of a building in Newton to be used for records storage was announced today by Liberty Mutual Insurance Company.

The recently completed two-story structure, a fire-proof office and warehouse building installed with elevators, provides 48,000 square feet in area. Frank Nelson of Medford will head a staff of approximately 12 people in the building, located at 66 Winchester street.

Rental of the Newton location is part of the insurance company's overall plans for space reorganization, now being carried out. Transferring of reords to Newton from the company's present storage quarters in a Stuart street, Boston, building is expected to start this month.

Liberty Mutual also maintains space for storage of records in Boston.

Careless Smoking Habits Are Cause of Needless Destruction

Smoking, in those who have the place of business.

To take care of the first, there must be a recognition that in places in which there are people there must be facilities to take care of the smoking habits. Almost no occupancy can be considered free of people who will desire to smoke. It is therefore essential that emphatic attention must be given to any prohibition of smoking. Signs in stores, forests, and other places must be not only eye-catching, but emphatic. Of even more importance near each of these signs must be placed a receptacle to dispose of the "weed" in whatever form the person is using it.

Information should be provided to tell people where they can smoke in order to provide greater safety for everyone.

The second phase of this problem involves the fact that smoking will take place. That being the case the problem is how to permit smoking and not to involve undue hazards. First, the promiscuous placing of cigarettes and the thoughtless discarding of these and other forms of partially consumed tobacco must be prevented. That means ash trays and other receptacles in every room, hallway, porch and even in the kitchen, in every home, even though the residents may not smoke. They must be conveniently located, handy and self-evident as to their use, but they must not be a type which will readily cause a fire. That handy contraption of a small ash tray on a leather strap, held in position on the arm of an overstuffed chair by two weights, has caused many midnight runs for the fire department. One of the greatest dangers from smoking is in connection with industrial work, warehousing, shipping and other work where, because of the character of the material used, or to obtain the full value of the worker's time smoking is prohibited.

First, it must be recognized that a large proportion of the population does and will continue to smoke.

Second, that smoking is not just an after-dinner affair. It is a continuous process with some and with practically all it involves not only the home but Harter and Saltonstall May Wage Last Fights in '54...

Neither Is Expected to Seek Office After Next Year...

Two of the outstanding Republicans in modern Massachusetts history may wage their final political campaigns as candidates for high public office next year.

Friends of Governor Christian A. Harter and Senator Leverett Saltonstall, the two men who will be heading the G.O.P. ticket in the Bay State in 1954, indicate that each will be making his last big political fight.

Persons close to Harter declare that he will stand for reelection next year but that if he is victorious, he will retire from office at the end of 1956 and would not seek a third term.

Supporters of Saltonstall say that he plans to serve just one more term in the United States Senate—the term for which he will bid a year from November.

Following this period, she will teach English for the coming academic year at the Genoa Junior and Senior High Schools. Her schedule also calls for her to teach an adult group of the Italian-American Association in Genoa. Miss Gianferante, who plans to return to the United States in August, 1954, has been active in community affairs. She is a member of the Adult Civic Association and is assistant secretary and precinct co-chairman of the Ward 3 Republican Committee.

Two Members Appointed

Women's Traffic Control Unit Brought to Its Full Strength

The Newton Women's Auxiliary Patrol was brought up to its full authorized strength of 28 Tuesday with the appointment of two additional members to the traffic unit.

The new members are Mrs. Helen T. Galvin of 1237 Walnut street, Newton Highlands, who has been assigned to Centre and Walnut streets; and Mrs. Mary J. Barry of 410 Parker street, Newton Centre, who will serve at the intersection of Parker street and Truman road, Newton Centre.

The Auxiliary Patrol reported to Police Headquarters Tuesday for a week of indoctrination and review courses given by Chief Philip Purcell, Capt. Charles H. Dowling, Safety Officer Charles E. Feeley and First Aid Instructor Gilbert J. Champagne.

Reps. Whitmore, Rawson Seek Tax Drop on 'Unearned Income'

Rep. Howard Whitmore Jr. and Rep. George E. Rawson have again filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives a bill to grant tax relief to those who live on so-called "unearned income."

"Under the present law, these persons pay a tax of 7.38 per cent (6 per cent plus a 23 per cent surtax). This bill provides that the statutory exemptions now applied to earned income shall be applied to earned income first, the balance to unearned income, and that where there is no earned income, they shall be applied to unearned income," Rep. Rawson explained.

"The new bill," he predicted "should have a better chance of success because of the present leadership on Beacon Hill."

Says Democracy Is Essentially Triumph of Withheld Judgement

"Democracy is essentially the triumph of withheld judgment, where a diversity of forms religious and social, political and credal, must be allowed to exist, to thrive, and to be heard," said Rabbi Irving Mandel of Temple Shalom of Newton, in his New Year's Eve Services last evening.

Over a thousand worshippers heard Rabbi Mandel re-emphasize the traditional spirit of the Jewish New Year in a sermon which stressed prophetic insights and standards as the measure for overcoming the fears and anxieties of present times.

"Mankind, by resorting to hasty judgments," said Rabbi Mandel, "is in danger of a mass retreat from age-old freedoms gained by submission to the superior judgment of God."

"Men and nations in vaunting power, are reducing hard-earned standards of justice and truth to the level of the cavemen. It is only spiritual and moral men who will have the capacity to move through the Twentieth Century's jungles of anxiety."

Was Head of the Residential Unit In 1952 Campaign

David Berkman of 412 Commonwealth Avenue, Newton Centre, has been appointed Chairman for the 1954 Red Feather Campaign in Newton, according to a statement released this week by William M. Cahill, President of the Newton Community Chest.

Mr. Berkman has been a resident of Newton for only six years but has been associated with the Red Feather Campaign locally in all of these years. Last year he was Chairman of the important Residential Division. Mr. Berkman is Vice President of Sheridan & Fitzgerald, Inc., Boston. He is a Vice President of the Newton Community Chest, a member of the Board of Directors of the Newton Kiwanis Club, and connected with many business and social organizations.

"Mr. Berkman's top organization has been entirely completed," states Mr. Cahill, "and he is to be commended on the splendid personnel which he has gathered around him. We look forward to another successful campaign under his leadership. The Red Feather Campaign raises each year by far the largest amount of money of any of the yearly campaigns held in Newton. The funds raised go to more than 300 health, welfare, and character-building services in Greater Boston, of which 14 are in Newton. We shall hope for the enthusiastic support in the coming campaign of every citizen of Newton and for the assistance of some 2500 individuals to make up the volunteer solicitation army."

As leader in the 1954 Campaign Mr. Berkman has selected Benjamin Shattuck of Waban as Assistant Campaign Chairman; Henry J. Wilson of West Newton, Chairman Residential Division; Bartlett Harwood, Jr. of Chestnut Hill, Chairman Advance Gifts Division; Frank G. Webster of Newton, Chairman Manufacturing Division; Mrs. Dorothy H. Reed of Waban, Chairman of the Women's Mercantile Division; and Eugene A. Cronin of West Newton, Chairman of the Men's Mercantile Division.

In charge of the Municipal Division he has appointed Chief Philip Purcell of the Newton Police Department; and of the Public Schools Division, Frank Zervas, of the Cabot School; in the Special Divisions are appointed Mrs. Frederick J. Wood of Newtonville, in charge of Service; S. J. Caruso of Auburndale in charge of Auditing; George L. Roberts of Newton Centre in charge of Publicity; Harry M. Myers of Oak Hill in charge of Worker Information; Mrs. William A. Dieman of Newton in charge of Education; and Mrs. Clarence A. Wentworth of Newtonville in charge of Kick-Off Dinner Arrangements.

The Campaign in Newton this year will be held during the months of October and November. There will be advance solicitation in the Advance Gifts, Manufacturing, Mercantile, Municipal, and Schools Divisions starting early in October. The Kick-Off Dinner for the Residential Division will take place on Thursday evening, October 22, in the Newton High School Gymnasium. The Campaign is scheduled to end on November 16.

Rawson Named to Redistricting Unit

Speaker Charles Gibbons of the Massachusetts House of Representatives has appointed Rep. George E. Rawson of Newton as a member of the Redistricting Commission.

This commission, consisting of members of the senate and house, was created by Chapter 85 of the Resolves of 1953 and is authorized to prepare a plan for the reorganization of the state's fourteen congressional districts on the basis of the 1950 census.

Ask Parents Aid in Bike Safety Drive

A safety campaign to reduce accidents to bicycle riders by urging parents to teach their children fundamental rules for safe cycling was started over the weekend by police officials.

Pointing out that a record number of bicycles are now registered in Newton, Chief Philip Purcell and Safety Officer Charles E. Feeley of Newton announced their cooperation with a drive by the Massachusetts Safety Officer League's currently underway.

A total of 580 registration plates were issued last year for bicycles, reported Sgt. William H. Dowling, head of the traffic division. This registration brings the total number issued by the division to 16,800.

Sgt. Dowling estimated that at present there are 13,500 bicycles in the city. A shipment of 300 more plates are due to arrive at Police Headquarters shortly for issuance later in the year.

Chief Purcell declared that studies disclose a tremendous increase of accidents involving bicycles, and in nearly every case the basic cause was carelessness or violation of safe riding rules.

Explaining the purpose of the drive, Chief Purcell issued the following statement:

Voted Life Tenure

Dr. Albert Gordon Honored by Temple Emanuel Congregation

In a statement to the members of Temple Emanuel of Newton, Joseph G. Deitz, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Temple announced that the Board had, at a recent meeting, voted Life Tenure to its Spiritual Leader, Dr. Albert I. Gordon.

"At a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of Temple Emanuel of Newton, held on June 23, 1953, and in compliance with the Constitution and By-Laws of the Temple, our Rabbi, Dr. Albert I. Gordon, was voted a contract with the Congregation providing for Life Tenure as the Rabbi of our Temple.

"This new agreement assures both Temple Emanuel and our Spiritual Leader the opportunity to continue to serve the interests of our Faith and our People in accordance with the high standards that have become characteristic of us.

"We know that the continued growth both physically and qualitatively of our Congregation and its present place of honor in the larger community have resulted from this mutual devotion to the tasks that have presented themselves. We have become a family in the finest sense of the word and are looking forward to an ever growing spirit of cooperation."

"As Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Temple Emanuel, I am pleased to make this announcement at the High Holy Day season which begins the new year, and to offer the hope that the Board's action will help us to carry on in the spirit of devoted service to our People and to our God."

Dr. Gordon was called to the pulpit of Temple Emanuel January 1, 1950. Prior to his incumbency one-half years, Temple Emanuel has almost doubled in size so that we now have a membership of approximately one thousand. Our recently completed building program, which provides us with such excellent school and other facilities now takes care of some seven hundred children in our Hebrew, Sunday and Nursery School departments. Our new youth program has attracted the young people and is to be expanded during this coming season. We have indeed grown in many important ways.

"This new contract assures us of the benefit of our Rabbi's guidance and service both within the Congregation and the larger community, and will assure to him, Mr. Gordon and his children the sense of security which we believe they merit.

"As Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Temple Emanuel, I am pleased to make this announcement at the High Holy Day season which begins the new year, and to offer the hope that the Board's action will help us to carry on in the spirit of devoted service to our People and to our God."

Mrs. Gorton and Mrs. Jones Receive Congratulations

The United Cerebral Palsy Day Camp conducted at the Newton Centre Playground for eight weeks this summer came to a close Friday, August 28. A new venture, it has been a most successful one benefiting both physically and mentally, group of cerebral palsy children from six to fifteen years of age. On closing day as they said good-by these happy youngsters asked, "Can we come again?" while grateful mothers expressed the hope that they might, and that there would be another Day Camp next year.

Early last spring the affiliated United Cerebral Palsy of Newton—Wellesley-Weston asked two of its directors, Mrs. R. Raymond Gorton of Gould road, Waban, and Mrs. E. Lake Jones of Row road, Newton Centre, to set up a Summer Day Camp. Finding a suitable site, procuring equipment, selecting competent counselors, contacting parents and arranging transportation for the children was quite an assignment; however, Mrs. Gorton and Mrs. Jones proved well qualified for the task.

During her second term as President of the Newton Centre Woman's Club Mrs. Gorton was responsible for starting a Play School for Cerebral Palsy children. Classes, with a Peabody Home teacher, were held at the Club House every Saturday morning throughout the club year 1951-1952 under the chairmanship of Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Charles W. Harvey of Newtonville. For this project a "CERTIFICATE OF ACHIEVEMENT" was awarded by the General Federation of Women's Clubs in a nation-wide contest of women's clubs for outstanding community service.

Mrs. Gorton is now First Vice President of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mr. Peter Groper, of Newton, outstanding communal leader, was appointed to the National Cabinet of the National Planning Committee of The Jewish Theological Seminary of America, according to Daniel G. Ross, Chairman.

Salvation Army Prepares to Launch Friendly Annual Drive

With a volunteer organization and sponsoring committee of prominent citizens known to every resident, the Salvation Army is getting ready to launch its Friendly Annual Appeal in Newton. Mrs. Edward G. Huber, 45 Homewood road, Waban, will again serve as general chairman for the second year. William M. Taxicab Driver Robbed by Two Passengers

A Boston taxicab driver was robbed by two passengers, one armed with a nickel-plated revolver, in Newton Centre, early Friday and then later thrown with his arms tied from his vehicle in Brookline.

The campaign slogan, according to Mrs. Huber, will be "The more you give the more Newton benefits." This is absolutely true, she states, "because one dollar of every five contributed here will remain in the Newton Service Fund exclusively for local needs."

Quota for the Newton drive is $30,491.

The Newton Service Fund is administered entirely by a local committee whose members know local conditions and needs best of all. The biggest advantage to this system is that help can be given on-the-spot without red tape or delay. The Salvation Army, through the quick actions of Service Fund Committee members, is thus truly "your good neighbor in action."

The local committee is made up of the following members: Mrs. Huber, Mr. Cahill, Mr. Poutas, Edmund T. Dungan of the Soldiers Relief Department of the city; Miss Emily Hickey, matron at the Newton Police Station, West Newton; Miss Catherine S. Holden, social service worker with the Family Service Bureau of Newton; Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, Newton city nurse, and Mrs. Lucille Palmer, social service worker at Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

It is always a part of Salvation Army policy to include nurses on the committee because they are in close daily contact with children who are the biggest beneficiaries of the Service Fund.

"We should also remember that Newton residents also benefit from many of the famed regional activities of the Salvation Army such as Booth Memorial Hospital and Home, the Red Shield Club for the Armed Forces, Wonderland Fresh Air Camp, the Men's Social Service Center, the League of Mercy and the Missing Persons Bureau,"

Ruth Coran, a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music, has appeared in New York with Charles Coburn, Cornelius O'Donnell, and many other artists. For many years she has been a teacher of dramatics, director of little theatre groups, and recently completed her fifth production for the Boston High Schools.

Junior College Begins Eighth Year October 5

Newton Junior College will begin its eighth year October 5 with an enrollment of about seventy students. Young men and women from Newton and from nine or ten surrounding towns will register for courses on September 28 and 29 in the College Library. Although Orientation Day for Freshmen is held on October first, new applications will be considered until classes open.

"The Junior College," says its director, James D. Laurits, "was founded initially, in 1946, to offer educational opportunities to men and women at a time when colleges were overcrowded. World War II veterans formed a large part of the student body in the first year. As the veteran students declined in number, the College served more and more civilian students. Just as the last

College teams in basketball and baseball play in regular leagues. Specialized facilities exist for students use, such as classrooms, social rooms, council room, and a large library.

"Average class size this year will be about twelve," added the director. "We make every attempt to capitalize on our relative smallness by maximizing participation, learning, and friendship for each student here. It is this kind of involvement of the individual, according to our alumni, which is of great personal value to the student."

Live, Learn, Work and Shop in Newton

Back To School

Massachusetts' largest single organized group activity is "going to school." Let us have the school houses ready!

Every year we hear the peal of school bells ushering in another year. The approach of September, with the opening of the nation's schools, is as exciting and as eventful as the arrival of December and Christmas. Shop windows and counters have been heralding for weeks the arrival of green book bags and plaids appropriate for boys and girls in kindergarten classes and dignified college halls. There is no denying it. It is time to go back to school.

Yet, in spite of this annual pilgrimage to the classroom, there is a thrill and a challenge that is undeniably a part of our American way of life.

Perhaps we have too long taken for granted this right to a free education and so we have not been alert to those conditions which have been allowed to grow up like so many tares before unseeing eyes. If permitted to continue, these weeds can choke this birthright into disuse.

Massachusetts—birthplace of Horace Mann, site of the first normal school, and the first free public school, the home of the free textbook—like its 47 sister states will find many of its classrooms bulging at the seams with those who are starting the "Happy Journey" of learning.

Although 50,000 new classrooms were built last year, an additional 50,000 will be needed across the country if the estimated 10 million more pupils are to be housed by 1960.

According to the latest report of the U.S. Commissioner of Education, Lee M. Thruson, the nation will need 118,000 public elementary school teachers in September, but since the net shortage of qualified teachers will be about 72,000, this shortage can be overcome only by further overcrowding or by recruiting teachers who do not meet the standards of training.

Although Massachusetts has spent great amounts of money during the past five years to improve school housing conditions, we have not kept abreast of the ever increasing birthrate, so that unequalized areas of classroom loads, shortages of teachers, and lack of sufficient funds to operate school systems efficiently remain. This latter deficiency could be eased by more state aid for public education.

Parent-teacher associations and the citizenry at large should study the school needs of their communities with open minds and hearts, setting aside personal prejudices and animosities, that the boys and girls of this Commonwealth may have an equal opportunity for a complete education.

We way differ in our religious and political beliefs. One thing, however, upon which we can safely have agreement is the American free public school, which has made this country the great power that it is today. Let us look well, then, to this priceless heritage, and as the school bells beckon this week, renew our faith in our education system by providing a good school and a good teacher for every child. Remember, public education is everyone's business.

Slow Down and Live

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Rudolph F. King says "Slow down when you are driving! Unreasonable speed is the nation's Number One killer—and is expensive in other ways, too."

The Registrar explains this statement by pointing out that moderate driving combines safety and economy. It should be remembered that human lives are at stake when vehicles are driven at excessive and unreasonable speeds. It is not the life of the operator alone which is jeopardized but, unfortunately, those of his passengers and other highway users as well.

Registrar King reminds motorists that it costs extra money to drive at high speeds because of the excessive gasoline consumption which takes place and because of the tremendous strain which is placed on tires, especially when swerving around curves or when applying the brakes. It is common knowledge that these items become more expensive as speeds are increased.

The SLOW DOWN and LIVE enforcement campaign is being continued throughout the Commonwealth and motorists are urged to cooperate by supporting enforcement and accident prevention authorities.

These two men—Saltonstall and Herter—have been so active in the affairs of their party and have made such great contributions to their State and their nation that it is difficult even for a non-partisan political observer to realize that the time may not be far distant when they will be retiring from the political wars.

It is probably reassuring to Republicans that they will be teaming together to head their party for its important battle next year, and it undoubtedly has not even occurred to most G.O.P. followers that it will not be too long before Saltonstall and Herter will be withdrawing to the sidelines.

It will not be easy for the G.O.P. to replace either man.

Saltonstall made his first bid for the Governorship in 1938, when Democrats had held the Governor's chair for eight years and the influence of Franklin D. Roosevelt was still great and the memory of the depression years strong.

He not only wrested away the office but held it for six years and then went on to win elections to the U.S. Senate in 1944 and 1948. Only once has Saltonstall met defeat in a State-wide election. That was his fluke loss to Francis E. Kelly for the Lieutenant Governorship in 1936, an upset which established for all time that nothing is certain in politics.

A memory which State House reporters will never forget is that of Saltonstall receiving word while he was Governor that his son had been killed in action, of his folding the telegram, placing it in his pocket and starting home to break the news to his wife.

His opponents in his Senate battles were not the most formidable candidates the Democratic party might have put forward. But in his gubernatorial campaigns Saltonstall defeated James M. Curley in 1938, Paul A. Dever in 1940 and Roger Lowell Putnam in 1942, and the blunt fact of the matter is that in both 1944 and 1948 there was no rush by the top Democrats to challenge Saltonstall.

Both Herter and Saltonstall began their careers in the Massachusetts Legislature and went up through the House of Representatives to become the Speakers of that body.

Herter, who as a Congressman had stamped himself as one of the nation's foremost authorities on international affairs, was importuned in the spring of last year to come back to Massachusetts and spearhead the fight to regain the Governorship which Paul A. Dever had held for four years.

He consented to make the battle even though at the outset it appeared a hopeless one and most of the political seers regarded Dever as practically unbeatable in view of the one-sided victories he had recorded in 1948 and 1950.

The manner in which he has administered the State's affairs has won the respect and admiration even of people who did not vote for him last November, and it is likely that feeling will increase if Herter next year succeeds in lowering the State income tax.

It will be a loss to more than the Republican party, when Herter and Saltonstall close out their public careers.

In the Girls' Camp, there were 33 Beginners Certificates, 6 Intermediate, 5 Swimmers and 1 Advanced Swimmer certificates awarded. The Boys' Camp had 53 Beginners, 23 Intermediate, 4 Swimmers and 2 Advanced Swimmer awards. Considering the strict standards of the Red Cross requirements, this is a remarkable record of instruction and achievement.

The Southerners thought they were getting a middle-of-the-roader when Adlai Stevenson was nominated, only to discover that Stevenson's views weren't the same before election as after it.

After the civil rights fight at the 1948 Democratic national convention in Chicago, Minnesota's Senator Hubert Humphries predicted that the A.D.A. would control the 1952 convention. His forecast wasn't entirely accurate, but there was little question but that the A.D.A. wielded an influence all out of proportion to its numerical strength.

Political experts have offered a number of explanations for the definite signs of the growth of a Republican party in the Democratic South. The biggest reason, however, is probably the development of the A.D.A. in the North, and until some compromise is reached between its two political wings, the Democratic party is certainly to be torn periodically by discord.

The real purpose behind next week's Democratic "harmony" conference in Chicago is to mark the homecoming of Adlai Stevenson and to re-introduce him to the American people.

Several Southern Democrats, however, have quietly served notice that they intend to reopen the so-called loyalty pledge issue which was the subject of so hot a battle at the 1952 national convention.

On the first night of that '52 convention a group of liberals headed by Congressman Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., of New York and former Senator Blair Moody of Michigan sought the passage of a resolution which would have required all delegates to sign a statement pledging themselves to support the nominees of the convention.

A number of Southerners, among them Governors James F. Byrnes of South Carolina and John S. Battle of Virginia, served notice that they would sign no such pledge, and for a time it appeared that they either would walk out of the convention or be expelled from it.

The old-line Democratic politicians of the stamp of James A. Farley and James M. Curley finally succeeded in having the resolution watered down and in writing it to a provision which baited out the Southerners—but for that convention only.

What the resolution really does is compel the Southerners to place the name of the symbol of the Democratic party on the ballot under the symbol of the Democratic party. And in view of the fact that Byrne, Governor Shivers of Texas and other Southern Democrats renounced Stevenson last year and supported President Eisenhower, a majority of the Democratic chieftains at next week's clavate probably will be unwilling to make any further concessions to their Southern cousins.

The New Deal Democrats express the hope that the coming get-together will be conducted in harmony, but they declare that if the Southerners precipitate a fight over the loyalty pledge, they will not back away from it.

President Eisenhower is expected to deliver a major address at the Republican fund-raising $100-a-plate dinner to be held at the Boston Garden on the night of Sept. 21.

The affair will bring back memories of the night last November, on the eve of election, when Ike rested his campaign for the Presidency with one of the best speeches ever delivered, before an overflow throng in the same Garden.

This will make his first appearance in New England since he spoke off-the-cuff last June at the Dartmouth Commencement and made his remarks about book-burning, precipitating a heated controversy both about what he meant and what he said.

It should be extremely interesting to observe the reception the President receives on his return to Boston, for the indications are that he has lost little or none of his popularity in the 10 months since his sweeping victory at the polls.

Local Pilgrimage to La Salette Shrine In Ipswich Sunday

A large local representation is expected to join in the annual pilgrimage from Newton to the National Shrine of Our Lady of La Salette in Ipswich next Sunday, September 13. All are invited to attend the impressive service of penance and prayer at the beautiful North Shore Shrine, which will begin at 3:30. The outdoor devotions have been attracting an average of three thousand persons every Sunday afternoon. All join in a procession through the gardens, with the recitation of the rosary and the singing of hymns, the way of the cross, benediction and the blessing of the sick.

Local pilgrims will travel to the Shrine in family groups and private cars. The Shrine grounds afford plenty of parking space. The Shrine is located just off the Newburyport Turnpike, a little past the Topsfield Fair Grounds.

Bus transportation will also be available to those who make reservations with Mrs. Patrick Higginson, 5 Copley street, tel. LA-7-3934.

What Shall We Eat...
...6 Tricks With Peanut Butter

Coddle the youngsters with good tasting and nourishing food in the sobering month of September. Children pulled back to the world of alarm clocks, books, hard shoes, and home lessons, love their familiar favorite foods more than ever. Try those with a new twist.

The peanut butter sandwich with a thermos of milk is a fine luncheon starter. Children love it; mothers find it easy and know it is a wonderful team of protein-rich goodness.

Here are half a dozen simple tricks to vary the well known peanut butter sandwich. Add a spoon of molasses for a tangy flavor.

A dash of honey and some cut raisins add sweetness. When you have a small quantity of dates on hand, chop them and add to peanut butter for sandwiches. You can raise the day's vegetable score by adding chopped celery or raw carrot to peanut butter. We know a little boy who likes chopped raw green pepper in his peanut butter sandwich; it's a Huck Finn sandwich.

Chopped crisp bacon with peanut butter makes a hearty sandwich, for the growing active boy.

For an after school snack let youngsters have cottage cheese spread on graham crackers. You can add chopped dates, figs, prunes, or raisins. Another autumn treat is a graham cracker spread with cottage cheese and topped with a thin layer of grape jelly.

...FOR A GOOD DAY

Breakfast—Fresh fruits make breakfast more inviting. Have a crescent of melon with sugar...

Slice fresh pears over crispy cereal and top with milk...

Fresh peaches and cereal.

Lunch—There's good eating in a peanut butter and chopped bacon sandwich, for busy grown-ups. Cook extra slices of bacon; chop it fine and mix it into peanut butter.

Dinner—Find a new way to serve delicious hamburg.

Safety Drive-

"During the summer and fall seasons traffic on our highways is at a peak, and since there are more bicyclists in use than at any time in the history of Massachusetts, the law enforcement officials are greatly alarmed and constantly seeking a solution to this most perplexing problem. For the present it appears that the greatest aid to this situation is the co-operation of all parents, in insisting that their children practice obedience to all safety regulations which are designed for their protection.

"A few sound common-sense hints which will help to keep your child out of trouble and still enable him to enjoy the fun of riding his bike, follow:

- 1. Learn to ride safely before using busy streets.
- 2. Ride on the right side of the road in single file.
- 3. Obey all traffic signs and signals and use hand signals.

4. Ride alone — your friends should not be ridden on the handle-bars or luggage carrier.

5. Don't ride out of driveways without stopping, and don't weave in and out of traffic.

6. If you ride at night a reflector, or better still, reflectorized tape, is absolutely necessary — and wear white.

7. Hitching rides on anything is dangerous.

8. Keep both hands on the handle-bar except when signaling.

9. Racing, stunt or trick riding is for the circus—not the public street.

10. Brakes, lights, reflector, bell or horn must be in good order. Ask Safety Officer Feeley to inspect your bike.)

"The Massachusetts Safety Officers League asks parents to set a good example when they drive the family car. Respect laws, rules and regulations and all our children will benefit and learn."

"Work Near Home,"
Says Albert Tate

Mr. Albert Tate

"That 'go west' for fame and fortune stuff is out of date," asserts Albert Tate of Dedham. Mr. Tate went no farther than Needham Heights to find a job with a future at the William Carter Company, leading manufacturers of under-wear.

The assistant principal at my high school suggested I try for a job at Carter's," says Mr. Tate, "and he gave me the right steer."

I'm in the stockroom filling customers' orders and learning the underwear business. Three nights a week I go to Northeastern where I'm majoring in salesmanship and someday I hope to sell for Carter's."

Mr. Tate feels he couldn't combine his earning-learning so easily if it weren't for Carter's location. "Living costs eat up your money in the city," he explains, "and commuting any distance is expensive, too. Working at Carter's I don't even have to pay for a parking meter because Carter's has its own big parking lot. And in a year I've made lots of friends."

Soon Mr. Tate will have to take temporary farewell of his Carter's friends for military service. He plans to return, however. "You find the opportunities of a big, growing company there with the comforts of a small town," says he.

Many of your Massachusetts neighbors are enthusiastic about their jobs at Carter's. There are some attractive openings for men and women available right now. Why not discuss them with Mr. E. G. Nickerson? Phone or see him at the William Carter Company, 963 Highland Avenue, Needham Heights 54, Telephone Needham 8-0035.

its present functions to the states and to the people.

Simultaneously, the Administration wants the remaining federal departments and agencies to operate as efficiently and economically as possible with a minimum of competition with private industry.

These are the joint aims of two commissions authorized by Congress at the request of President Eisenhower. They are the new Hoover Commission and a commission on Federal-state relations.

You will be hearing a great deal in the next few months about this campaign to cut big government down to size and get people out of the habit of running to Washington with all their problems.

These commissions will study virtually every phase of government. Some experienced legislators say their reports — plus action upon them — will answer the question: Is big Federal government too big to be controlled?

Former President Herbert Hoover, at 75, has yielded to requests that he head the new commission which is instructed to study the Federal government. He sees in it an opportunity to chart a path to bolster private enterprise, cut taxation, lessen bureaucratic rule and improve governmental efficiency.

Other members of the commission are: Senators Ferguson (R-Mich.) and McClellan (D-Cal.); Representatives Brown (R-Ohio) and Holifield (D-Cal.); former Postmaster-General James A. Farley; Joseph P. Kennedy, Former Ambassador to Great Britain; Robert G. Storey, President of the American Bar Association; Dean S. C. Hollister of the Cornell University School of Engineering; Arthur Flemming, Director of the Office of Defense Mobilization; Attorney-General Herbert Brownell, and Sidney A. Mitchell, New York Investment Banker who has had considerable experience in the Federal Government.

The new commission has an even bigger task than the first Hoover Commission on reorganization of the government. The new commission not only seeks to improve efficiency in bureaus, but also will recommend measures for "reducing expenditures to the lowest amount consistent with the efficient performance of essential services, activities and functions: eliminating duplication and overlapping of services, activities and functions; abolishing services, activities and functions not necessary to the efficient conduct of government, and eliminating non-essential services, functions and activities which are competitive with private enterprise."

Mr. Hoover himself pointed to the huge growth of big Federal government, saying that in the last twenty years it had expanded from 400 different agencies to over 1,500; from about 600,000 employees to over 2,400,000, and expenditures have risen from about $4 billion to over $70 billion.

The Eisenhower Administration also wanted a study made of the ability and willingness of state, county and city governments to recapture many functions taken from them by the Federal government during the last twenty years. This will be done by the new Commission on Inter-Governmental Relations, which will consist of twenty-five members. President Eisenhower is seeking the best qualified persons for the monumental task.

The duties of this commission include "a study of the proper role of the Federal government in relation to the states and their political subdivisions, to the end that these relations may be clearly defined and the functions concerned may be allocated to their proper jurisdiction."

The commission thus must deal with such problems as Federal incursion into the domain of local governments in carrying out Federal aid programs of many kinds, proper allocation of tax sources, social security, aid to education, construction of highways and many other similar matters.

Some state officials have urged the Federal government to get completely out of highway construction and let gasoline taxes be the exclusive revenues for the states. There is a continuing struggle in congress between those favoring Federal aid to education, and those insisting

Creative Dance Classes to Again Be Held at Newton

A unique opportunity to create their own dances and dance music will be offered again to people of all ages this fall at the Newton YMCA. In the Creative Dance classes introduced here last year, children and adults experienced the satisfaction of improvising their own dances, and the fun of dancing with others to express the feeling of the group. Along with this expression work, which includes the use of sound, time patterns, and simple instruments as integral parts of dance, technical exercises are given to develop the rhythm of natural movement, and to release the tensions built up by every-day occupations. No special facility or dexterity is required — everyone dances according to his creative needs and physical capacity.

The program this year will be directed by Miss Elizabeth Best, a resident of Newton and last year's Creative Dance Director, and Mrs. Janet Faxon of Jamaica Plain. Miss Best studied for several seasons at the Barbara Mettler school in New Hampshire, and had many years of teaching experience, notably at the Boston and Cambridge YWCA's and at the Cambridge Center for Adult Education. Mrs. Faxon has studied with Miss Mettler at the Boston YWCA which has pioneered in presenting this new approach to modern dance, and has had extensive experience in teaching children at the Boston and Brockton YMCA centers.

Classes will open at the YMCA, 276 Church street, Newton Corner, on Tuesday, October 6. The 5-7 age group will meet every Tuesday at 3:00, the 8-10 group at 4:00, and the class for adults will meet Tuesday evenings from 8:00 to 9:30. On Wednesday afternoons, older and more experienced children will meet at 4:00. Since these classes are expected to fill up rapidly, it is advisable to register by mail, or at the latest on September 29 when the two dance teachers will be present at the YMCA from 3:00 to 5:00.

Modern Creative Dance is a new and popular conception of dance as an aesthetic experience. It appeals to people of all kinds, of all ages, because it offers creative recreation, individuality and freedom of movement, and healthful relaxation. Its philosophy is that everyone can dance, and that movement is enjoyable for its own sake.

Happy Birthday
The birthplace of American industry has been located at a spot near Jamestown, Va. There, in 1608, a glass factory—the first factory of any sort in the U.S.—was set up. A move is under way to preserve the site as a national landmark.

Mumps Cases Continue to Show Drop

Although the number of mumps cases in Newton continues far above last year's figure, the outbreak of that disease continued to decline during August from its peak in May, according to a report by Dr. Ernest M. Morris, director of public health.

In his monthly report on communicable diseases within Newton, Dr. Morris said that there were 19 mumps cases reported within the city limits in August, while there were only six in August last year.

The outbreak of the disease reached its highest point during May when 50 cases were recorded. There was a slight drop to 48 cases in June, and then the disease declined rapidly to 21 in July.

Dr. Morris' report also listed five squirrel bites this year as opposed to none in August, 1952 thanks to a rampaging squirrel in Auburndale which was finally dispatched by a policeman's revolver.

Unselfishness

I count him braver who overcomes his desires than him who conquers his enemies, for the hardest victory is the victory over self. —Aristotle

The best man or woman is the most unselfish.

—Mary Baker Eddy

Let the thought of self pass in, and the beauty of a great action is gone like the bloom from a soiled flower.

—James A. Froude
We erect the idol self, and not only wish others to worship, but worship it ourselves.

Our gifts and attainments are not only to be light and warmth in our own dwellings, but are to shine through the window, into the dark night, to guide and cheer bewildered travellers on the road.

—Henry Ward Beecher

One thing is clear to me, that no indulgence of passion destroys the spiritual nature so much as respectable selfishness.

—George Macdonald

We didn't all come over on the same ship, but we're all in the same boat.—Bernard Baruch

The Once Reluctant Stevenson Now Looms as Eager-Beaver...
But the 1952 Democratic Nominee May Find Going Rough...

Adlai Stevenson has undergone quite a political transformation since the day, 15 months ago, when he protested to the Illinois delegation to the Democratic national convention that he was neither physically nor mentally fitted to be President of the United States.

Then he was the reluctant and unwilling candidate who didn't want to run, who discouraged talk of drafting him and gave in only after great pressure and what appeared to be a strictly legitimate draft of a man who on all the evidence really didn't want to be his party's Presidential standard-bearer.

Now he has all the aspects of a political eager-beaver who already has fixed his gunsights on the 1956 Democratic national convention and the next Presidential campaign and seemingly has every intention of seeking a return battle.

That has caused many persons to start wondering out loud if Adlai Stevenson really was an unwilling candidate, when the Democratic national convention opened in Chicago last year, or if his draft was something that he himself directed and maneuvered from behind the scenes, with his hard-to-get attitude merely a political act.

Evening Courses

Four New Subjects Are Offered By Newton Junior College

Newton Junior College has announced the evening college courses for adults which will be offered this fall. There are no formal admission requirements for the classes, and tuition charges are the same for non-residents as for people who live in the Newtons. Classes meet in Junior College rooms in the high school, Technical Building, Elm road, Newtonville.

The first semester begins on October 5, and persons interested in a course should register by the first of October. Registration can be completed by phone, LA 7-6267, or by visit to the College office. Classes meet one evening a week for eleven weeks. College credit is given where desired. Although certain courses are already planned for the fall, the College is prepared to offer any subject in which a group of twelve or more citizens is interested.

Great Philosophies of Life is "a course for the exchange of great ideas. Each of us thinks at times about the nature and meaning of life, of man and the universe. You will begin in this course to learn about the basic ideas of men whose philosophies have attracted wide attention. You will select for your own use from the thoughts of Buddha, Confucius, Spinoza, James, Dewey, and others. These thoughts will be discussed in everyday language. The class will test them against its own experiences and against their relevance to the world today. You may find your own ideas on the good life altered and deepened."

The Psychology of Personality is designed to provide greater understanding of one's own behavior and the behavior of others. It is personally oriented—a practical course dealing with life situations from the point of view of individual behavior. Topics covered include: the development of personality traits; personal adjustment; the role of attitudes and emotions; human motives; imaginative materials; and projective tests; mechanisms of personality disturbance. The concepts dealing with the formation of personality are among the most challenging in psychology today. With these concepts, the course considers how personalities can be changed or modified.

Human Relations and the Child will be based on the discussion of problem situations accurately reported from real life. Each member of the class will receive his own copies of the cases used. The case problems will focus attention on relation

SALARY INCREASE FOR MAYOR TO BE DECIDED BY VOTERS NOV. 3

School Enrollment 13,804 On Opening Day Of Sessions

Is An Increase of 663 Compared to Number Last Year

Newton's school enrollment Monday on the opening day of school totalled 13,804 as compared with 13,141 pupils last year, or an opening day increase this year of 663.

But despite the increase, seventy-six fewer children than last year entered the kindergartens of the city this year, reflecting the gradual decline in the city's birth rate since the record year of 1947.

In the combined kindergarten and elementary schools, a record 8,533 children applied for admission, an increase of 512 over last year's total, 8,021.

The population rises in some of the individual schools were: Bigelow Junior High, up 76; Angier School, up 39; Cabot School, 45; Hamilton, 28; Underwood, 53; Ward, 36; Memorial, 122, and Davis, 132, due in part to the redistricting of some students from the Franklin to the Davis School.

Assistant Supt. of Schools Charles O. Richter predicted that 150 more children would enroll in the city's kindergartens before October 1, bringing the total to 1374 for the 1953-54 school year.

Total enrollment at Newton Technical and Newton High Schools, as of the first day of school last year, 2476, while this year's figure was 2492, or an increase of 16 students. In the four junior high schools, 2779 pupils registered Monday as against 2644 last year, an increase of 135.

In the combined kindergarten and elementary schools, a record 8,533 children applied for admission, an increase of 512 over last year's total, 8,021.

RABBI IRVING MANDEL

Rabbi Mandel Is Honored at Reception

The Sisterhood of Temple Shalom of Newton held a reception and open house for its congregation in honor of Rabbi Irving A. Mandel, last Thursday at Temple Shalom. The reception was given on the occasion of the concluding service which the Rabbi is conducting prior to his departure from the congregation, where he has served as Rabbi since its inception 3 years ago.

The Brotherhood and Sisterhood gave a gift to the Temple in honor of Rabbi Irving Mandel in addition to a personal gift, in appreciation of the friendship and spiritual guidance given by the Rabbi. Rabbi Mandel announced, concerning his future plans, that during the coming year he will be residing and carrying on further studies in Chicago.

Human Relations and the Child will be based on the discussion of problem situations accurately reported from real life. Each member of the class will receive his own copies of the cases used. The case problems will focus attention on relation

Automobile Insurance Rate Lower But Families With Drivers Under 25 To Feel Increase

Although the basic rate for compulsory automobile insurance in this city will take a $1 dip next year for those families with no drivers under 25 years of age, a 60 per cent increase is in store for those families who do have licensed drivers under that age, according to plans released over the past week-end by State Insurance Commissioner Joseph A. Humphreys.

Newton will pay $38.50 instead of last year's $39.50 for their compulsory car insurance. The 60 per cent increase levied against family car owners with drivers or potential drivers under 25 years of age will make the Newton rate $62. This includes two car families, where junior owns a jalopy. If he owns his own car, his dad still has to pay the 60 per cent increase because, according to the State Insurance Commissioner, he is a potential driver of his father's car.

Persons in the Newton area using their vehicles for business will pay $49.50.

Partial relief is in store for those drivers under 25 who are graduates of the Behind the Wheel Driver Training Course sponsored by Registrar King. These courses, including Newton, stand to save the graduate or his parents 15 per cent of their insurance cost. For example, the graduate of a high school driver training course will pay only $52.50 for the compulsory automobile insurance. For his family it represents a saving of $9.50 for each car registered.

It's not always possible to tell whether a man is being sincere or not. A reporter can't peer into the mental process of a person he's covering, and he must base his opinions and conclusions on the surface evidence resulting from what is said and done.

It is our conviction, however, that the draft of Stevenson was a really honest one and that Adlai actually didn't want to run until the Presidential nomination, which so many men eagerly battle for, was dropped into his lap.

Maybe he enjoyed the high pressure, the fast tempo and the tremendous public adulation of a Presidential campaign. Perhaps his defeat at the hands of President Eisenhower was a blow to his personal pride that caused him to look ahead for an opportunity for political vindication.

Whatever the reason, the present-day Adlai Stevenson has a vastly different political attitude from the one he demonstrated in mid-July, 1952, when newspaper photographers snapped him in deep reverie, contemplating the great weight his Democratic admirers wanted to place on his shoulders.

Ironically, the Democratic nomination for President may not come to him as easily, when he wants it, as it did when he sought to avoid it.

Politicians are notoriously reluctant to give second chances to unsuccessful candidates for the Presidency. They sometimes do, as in the case of Thomas E. Dewey, but not very often.

Powerful forces within his own party will be out to stop Stevenson, and he may suffer the same political fate as did Wendell Willkie before the 1956 Democratic national convention presents its Presidential candidate to the people of the United States.

It's pretty well known in Democratic circles that no warm bond now exists between Stevenson and former President Truman, that each man privately considers himself the titular leader of his party and that Truman is not likely to give his support again to Stevenson.

The Southerners, led by Georgia's Senator Richard Russell, want no part of Stevenson and would wage a determined fight against taking him a second time.

Senator Estes Kefauver is still a political force to be reckoned with, and if he can't overcome the opposition of the Democratic bosses he may have a good deal to say about who does get his party's nomination.

The likelihood is that the Democrats in 1956 will seek a middle-of-the-road candidate who may be able to hold the slipping South and will have some appeal in the Democratic North and that it won't be either Stevenson or Kefauver.

The 1954 Republican campaign will actually have its start at the Boston Garden next Monday night, when President Eisenhower speaks at the $100-a-plate G.O.P. fund-raising dinner.

Principal figures at the dinner along with Ike will be Governor Herter and Senator Saltonstall, both of whom will be standing for reelection next year.

Politicians, who are the most adroit people in the world at conjuring up far-fetched possibilities, have been speculating as to whether there is any likelihood that the President might name Saltonstall to the vacancy in the U.S. Supreme Court and thus clear the way for Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., to run again for the Senate next year.

They reason that Lodge was Ike's pre-convention campaign manager, that he was bitterly disappointed over his defeat at the hands of John F. Kennedy last year and that he may be anxious to return to a seat on Capitol Hill even as a freshman Senator, starting a career in that body for the third time.

That is interesting conjecture in what for State politicians is an off-year, but there appears to be no basis whatever for anticipating any such turn of events.

Senator Saltonstall certainly has all the aspects of a man who expects to be fighting for reelection next year, and Lodge probably will continue as this country's Ambassador to the U.N., a post in which his service has commanded considerable praise.

While Ike will be the center of attention and the big attraction at Monday night's conclave, with his speech receiving nationwide coverage, there also will be great interest in what Herter and Saltonstall have to say.

Governor Herter has completed a little more than eight months in office, and he has accomplished a great deal in that time. Whether he will use next week's affair as an occasion to report to the people of Massachusetts is not known. He could, however, give quite a progress report, if he chooses to do so.

The plan for increasing the compulsory automobile charges for families with licensed drivers between 16 and 25 years of age is going to penalize many young men and women who handle an automobile carefully and are good accident risks.

Statistics, of course, show that the young operators are responsible for far more than their share of accidents. That's apparently due to the fact that a small percentage of them take chances and indulge in recklessness when behind the wheel of a car.

A great many insurance experts believe that the State should not grant an automobile operator's license to a boy or girl before the age of 18 and that many 16-year-old youths are not ready to accept the responsibility of handling a car. The legislators, however, have shown an unwillingness to change the law.

A proposal that has been advanced in the past and that might be worthy of consideration is daytime driving licenses be issued to teen-age boys and girls seeking them and that a lesser insurance penalty be assessed against them.

That would lighten the burden on a boy who is supporting his family by driving a delivery truck or on the youth who uses a car to go to and from his college classes and at the same time take them off the highway during the night period, when most accidents occur.

A great many parents would privately welcome a curfew law which prevented teen-age sons and daughters from driving the family car after, say 9 o'clock at night.

It's an idea that would arouse little enthusiasm in the teen-age ranks, but it might save some of their lives and lessen the insurance bills their parents have to pay.

RANDOM CLIPPINGS

The 24-year-old wife of a Korean war veteran, Mrs. Viola Rogers Brown of Williamson, N. C., recently gave birth to her 16th and 17th children, presenting her husband with twins. Only six of her children are living. Quadruplets born in 1946, when she was 17, and quintuplets born in 1950 all died, as did twins born in 1951. Triplets born in 1951 are living.

ships involving children; on actual situations from neighborhood, home, and school. The problems are approached and analyzed from the general viewpoint of dynamic psychology wherein the behavior and interactions of all people in the case are observed and studied. Readings from human relations and psychology will be given out in mimeographed form to aid in the analysis of the problems presented.

The Universe Around Us is a non-technical course which will give the layman an overall picture of our physical universe.

The survey will cover such things as: our solar system and the Milky Way; our sun and the other stars; the distant galaxies; dust and gases in space; the planet Earth. Discussions will be held on theories about the universe, about the loss and creation of matter, about the prevalence of life, and about the many great questions yet to be answered. The student should gain from the course a "grand perspective" of the world around us and a fuller understanding of natural laws.

Real Estate Fundamentals will be an elementary course with principal emphasis on the selling and handling of suburban real estate. It will also be a beginning course for the person who wishes to become an agent. The real estate agent's relationships with seller and buyer will be discussed, together with the customs and regulations which affect the business. Other topics will include: setting up an agency, securing clients, establishing real estate prices and commissions, the passing of title, mortgage financing, kinds of deeds and contracts.

Conversational Spanish. The class will be for beginners and for those who need a review of the language. Emphasis is on learning to speak and to listen to Spanish easily and well, so that next summer's trip to Mexico, Cuba, Puerto Rico, or other countries to the south will be a better and broader experience. Class size will be limited, so that students gain ample practice in the language. The instructor is Mr. Francesco Argento of the Junior College staff.

There will also be a course in the writing of English for business purposes and a course covering Law for the layman.

U.S. Marine Band At Symphony Hall Sunday, October 4

The 155-year old United States Marine Band, the oldest military symphonic musical organization in the country, will visit Boston on Sunday, October 4, at Symphony Hall and present two concerts, it was announced this week.

Sponsored by the Roslindale-West Roxbury Kiwanis Club, the program will include the Underprivileged Child Fund of the organization.

Matinee and evening concerts will be presented, with musical works by the world's finest composers and stirring marches which have brought the Marine Band acclaim from visiting dignitaries of almost every country in the world.

Conducted by Lt. Col. William F. Santelmann, the Marine Band is known to millions of Americans through its two weekly coast-to-coast radio broadcasts, its frequent television appearances and its concert series in the Nation's Capital. The annual tours, which started under the direction of John Philip Sousa in 1891, have afforded Americans living outside the Washington area, an opportunity to see and hear the world-famous Marine Band, whose history goes back further than that of the Capital City itself.

Familiarly known as "The Presidents' Own," the Marine

Band has played for every inauguration since Thomas Jefferson's. Founded in 1798 by an Act of Congress, the Band has played for all official functions in the Nation's Capital and all important history-making events in this country since that time.

The personnel of the Marine Band includes musicians carefully screened and selected from some of the nation's leading symphony orchestras, high school and college bands. To be accepted into the Band, an applicant must pass strenuous auditions on two instruments and undergo a rigid physical examination.

St. Paul's Choir Of London to Sing at Wellesley

For the first concert this fall the Wellesley Concert Series will present St. Paul's Cathedral Choir of London, England, at Alumnae Hall, Wellesley College Wednesday evening, October 14 at 8.

The noted choir sang at the coronation and some of the music sung on this historic occasion will be repeated at the concert.

The Choir is made up of 30 boy choristers and 18 adult voices, as well as director of Cathedral Music. The tour is being made in conjunction with the building of the Memorial Chapel in St. Paul's Cathedral honoring the 28,000 Americans killed during World War II while based in Britain. This is the Choir's first visit to America.

The boys of the Choir have their own school at which they live and study for 40 weeks of the year, during which time they sing over 500 services, as well as carrying on the routine of a normal preparatory school.

The New York Times in commenting editorially on the Choir's visit to this country, said:

"The choir's trip, conversely, has been underwritten in the United States, and any profits that accrue will go to American charities under the direction of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Thus the gesture of goodwill becomes once more twofold and two-way. We can extend the warmest of welcomes to the St. Paul's choir not only because of its artistic importance and because of the pleasure that we shall derive from listening to it but also because of what it symbolizes in the friendship of our two countries."

Tickets may be secured by mail or telephone at Billings Hall, Wellesley College, from Monday thru Friday, 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., telephone WE 5-0320.

This Will Be Busy Political Season for Newton Voters...
Whitmore and Herter to Resign After City Election...

This is going to be a busy political season for Newton voters. A special election to fill one place in the Massachusetts House of Representatives will follow close on the heels of the regular municipal election.

One special election has been called for November 10 to fill the vacancy caused by Rep. Herter's resignation.

Originally it was suggested that Herter and Whitmore resign earlier so that the two elections might be held simultaneously, but after some deliberations it was decided it would not be wise to mix the State and city elections.

Because the party lines are so tightly drawn in the House, the legislative election undoubtedly will be scheduled so that the two persons chosen to succeed Herter and Whitmore may be sworn in and assume their places when the Legislature convenes in early January.

First Aid and Safety

Gilbert J. Champagne Named Chairman of Safety Services

William Falconer, Chairman of the Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, announces the appointment of Gilbert J. Champagne as Chairman of Safety Services, consisting of the divisions of First Aid and Water Safety.

Chairman of First Aid since 1950, he is assuming the additional responsibility of the Water Safety Program formerly carried on by Mr. Frank E. Dowdett.

Mr. Champagne, a member of the Newton Police Department, is well known throughout Newton, having given first aid instruction to many citizens, Civil Defense personnel and all members of the Police Department. A recent accomplishment was the placement of First Aid plates on all police cruising cars indicating that the vehicles carry emergency equipment and are manned by men trained in Advanced First Aid.

Mr. Champagne is a member of the training staff of the Red Cross Aquatic School at Camp Kiwanis in South Hanson. He is already making plans for the Water Safety program at Crystal Lake in Newton Centre next summer.

Mr. Harry L. Walen, Chairman of the Disaster Preparedness and Relief Committee, has secured the services of Stuart M. Spaulding of Newtonville as a vice-chairman, Mr. Laurence O. Freeman of West Newton and Mrs. Harold McCarty of Auburndale.

Tickets may be ordered from Mrs. Boultier (BI 4-3090) or Mrs. Chalmers (LA 7-4128). Even the talent is local in that Mrs. McKeon, a professional monologist and dramatics teacher, with starring roles in New England and Canadian summer theatre, radio and TV to her credit, now lives in Auburndale.

Not only individuals, but church groups and civic organizations in the Newtons have shown a keen interest in the welfare of the 2000 mental patients in this Waltham hospital. Volunteer

Plan Project to Aid Mentally Ill

A program of dramatic readings by Mrs. J. Stuart McLean Tuesday, September 29 at 2:30 in the Newton Highlands Workshop is the current project by which Newton Community Friends of the Metropolitan State Hospital plan to raise money for their volunteer work on behalf of the patients. Co-chairmen of the occasion are Mrs. Everett Bouler of Newtonville and Mrs. D. William Lovell of Auburndale. Miss Virginia Gray of the hospital's Occupational Therapy Department is in charge of the tea to follow, ably assisted by Mrs. Harry Hanson of Waban.

Others on the tea committee are Mrs. Harold Rice and Mrs. Eaton Weber of Newtonville, Mrs. Allston Budgell of Newton Highlands, Mrs. Paul Chalmers of Chestnut Hill, Mrs. Nathaniel Wolf of West Newton and Mrs. Harold McCarty of Auburndale.

Muther Says Wrong Basis Was Adopted

It appears that the state has made an error in the tax distributions as announced Monday, and if not corrected, can cost Newton many thousands of dollars, according to Lorenz F. Muther, Jr., Executive Director of the Newton Taxpayers' Association.

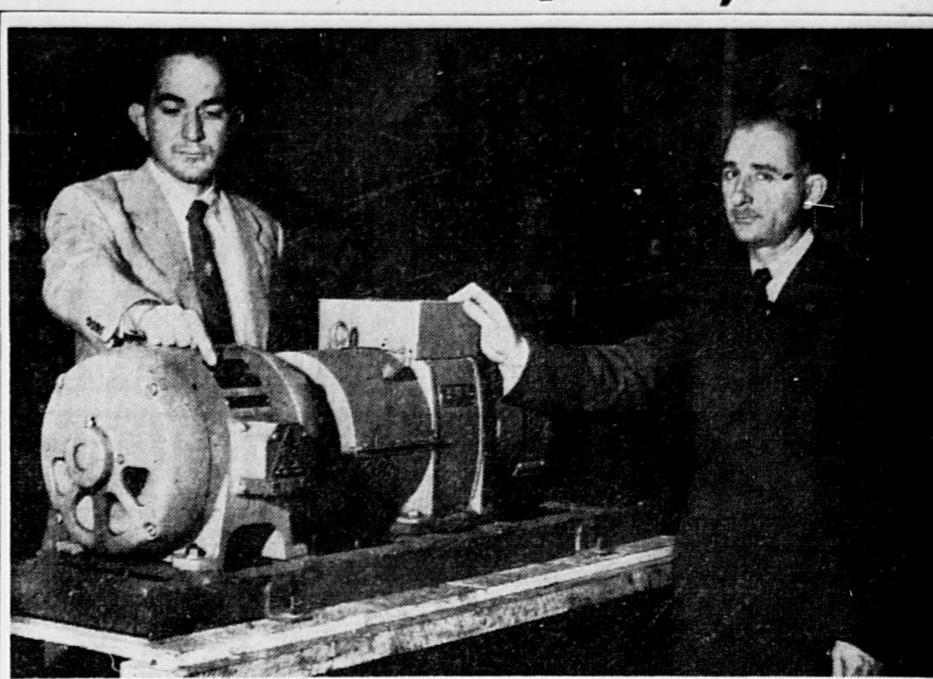

In his statement, Mr. Muther said, "The distribution announced on Tuesday was based on the school aid element in the income tax distribution instead of on the state tax basis, and it is our understanding that the full payment of the education element has already been made. Newton will thereby suffer a $70,000 loss unless the alleged mistake can be corrected."

Continuing he said: "The bill filed by the Newton Taxpayers' Association (H 1275) now before the Special Commission on Taxation, clarifying and simplifying the income tax distribution procedure, would make the chance of such an error much more unlikely. We are sorry the recent session of the legislature did not pass the bill, and hope that the Commission will recognize its merit. Meanwhile the city must now devise some means of getting its proper share of state collected income taxes this year."

In a statement issued Tuesday, State Treasurer Foster Furcolo announced that Newton's share of the $5,000,000 additional to be

Adult Course In English to Be Offered

An adult evening course in English has been added by Newton Junior College to the six courses previously announced for the Fall semester. The class, English for Business and Everyday Use, will meet on Monday evening in the Technical Building of the High School.

The course will provide an opportunity for adults to improve their English by studying the more practical aspects of the language. It is designed for men and women in business who wish to express their ideas with greater clarity and conciseness. The instructor states that it will also serve well those people who would like to write a better letter or to engage in conversation with increased power and confidence in correct usage and grammar.

The class will begin with a review of grammar and usage. Common sense explanations are used to show why certain words and constructions are preferred by those who get the most out of the English they use in their speaking and writing. In addition to a sound review of the Faculty and Curriculum Changes

Mother Eleanor S. Kenny, President of Newton College of the Sacred Heart, has announced that Mother Mary Quinlan, Ph.D., former director of studies at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Stone Ridge, Washington, D. C., and present Professor of History at the College, will become Dean of Studies this year.

Talking with Dr. Franz Ollendorff, world's renown professor of electrical engineering and a volunteer teacher at Technion, Mr. Horlick discovered the lack of precision electronic equipment—equipment needed for experimentation.

Determined to equip the Technion's laboratory with the latest technological improvements in high frequency equipment, Mr. Horlick, upon his return to the English department,

Ringing of False Alarms Are Apt to Take Toll in Lives

Each year the sounding of false fire alarms reap their toll in lives, injuries to civilians and firemen and damage to property due to peoples perverted idea of having fun or trying to be smart at the expense of the taxpayers.

There is no real justification for any person over the age of 8 years old of normal intelligence in sounding a false fire alarm. There is nothing honorable in committing such an act. If there were, the persons that do it would not leave the fire alarm box least they be apprehended. They are grossly misusing a public emergency system and service and should be brought to justice.

Stop and think for a moment and realize what can happen due to the sounding of a false fire alarm. An alarm is sounded and at fire alarm headquarters they do not know what it is for, so the regular assignment is dispatched. This usually consists of the Chief, an Assistant Chief, three or four engine companies and one or two ladder companies. After dark the lighting plant is dispatched to all box alarms. While enroute to answer this alarm a motorist may become involved in an accident with a piece of apparatus damaging both the fire apparatus and the motorist auto, valuable life saving equipment and injuring civilians and firemen. This same piece of fire apparatus, if it were not damaged, might have been the means of saving someone's life at the next real fire.

It could be that while this assignment is answering this false alarm, another fire alarm has come in for a real fire or emergency in the same area. Due to the first alarm apparatus being out of quarters, apparatus from a greater distance must be dispatched to cover this call.

This all takes time and every second counts when it comes to saving lives or trying to prevent the extension of fire. Death, more injuries and a far greater loss of property can easily result due to just a few seconds delay, in this case it would result in a few minutes delay in reaching the location. May be this real call for help is for your own home or a friend of yours. It would not be a very pleasant thought to cherish the rest of your life, knowing that through your thoughtlessness in sounding a false fire alarm you had brought a great and unnecessary tragedy into someone's life.

Parents, taxpayers and citizens all of these false fire alarms are needless and are costly and you are paying for them and the hospital and doctor bills, damage to property and the mental suffering incurred.

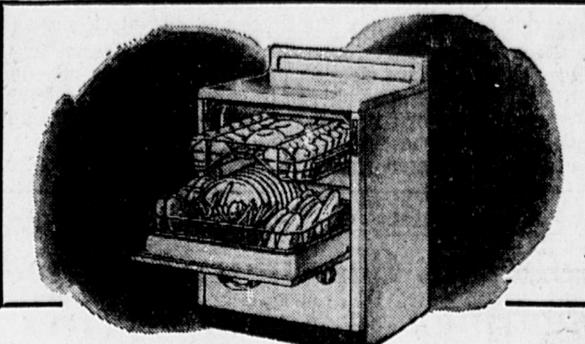

Through the combined efforts of all good law abiding citizens this wasteful practice can be reduced. Talk it over with your whole family, point out that fire alarm boxes are for emergency and for their safety, they are not to be played or tampered with at any time. Never sound a false fire alarm here in Newton or elsewhere if it is in your power to prevent it.

It is usually only cowards that sound a false fire alarm and no

Famous Central Engines Star at "Progress in Power" Show

1. NUMBER 1 ATTRACTION for visitors to the "Progress in Power" exhibit this month at New York's Grand Central Terminal is the historic DeWitt Clinton. The little engine, rebuilt exactly as it was in 1881, hauled the first train on the Mohawk & Hudson, first link in Central's 11,000-mile system.

2. HISTORIC "999" also stars at the show. This is the famous locomotive that, on May 10, 1893, pulled The Empire State Express 112½ miles an hour—the world's speed record for many years. With race horses and 86-inch drivers, 999 marks another high light of Progress in Power on New York Central.

3. MIGHTY MODERNS on display are Central's 4,700 horsepower steam Hudson and streamlined diesel-electric locomotives. Progress from the DeWitt Clinton to the super-efficient power of today has helped cut rail freight charges from 8¢ per ton per mile in 1882 to an average of only 1½¢ per ton per mile now.

4. NEW EFFICIENCY continues to cut the real cost of rail freight. Shipping a carload of wheat from Chicago to New York cost the price of 127 bushels in 1940. Last year, 99 bushels would pay the freight, saving 28 bushels in real cost. Yes, finer service at lowest possible rates is always the CENTRAL IDEA.

Political Overtones —

The Republicans cannot afford to give away two votes which conceivably might decide an important issue before the House. As it is, the G.O.P. on Beacon Hill is suffering quite a blow in the loss of two legislators of the stature and caliber of Whitmore and Herter.

Since 1954 is an election year, the debates in the two legislative chambers will assume an even more partisan and political tone than was the case this year, and Whitmore and the younger Herter will be missed by the Herter administration.

In the case of Whitmore, the State's loss will be Newton's gain, and young Herter is on what might be called a Sabbatical leave to Vice President Nixon, for when his father concludes his service in the Governor's office, the Newton legislator undoubtedly will return to resume his own political career, probably to run for higher office.

Saltonstall Winning Votes on State Tour ... Gov. Herter Building Political Strength ...

One thing evident from Senator Leverett Saltonstall's campaign tour is that he has the political touch. Another is that he is getting quite a jump on the Democratic opponent he will face in next year's election.

Saltonstall is able to put at ease immediately the people he meets, whether they be housewives doing their shopping, store clerks, truck drivers or top-flight business tycoons.

His informal approach and the homey manner in which he is going about his political fence-building chore unquestionably are winning him friends and storing away votes that may come in handy in 1954.

Many a housewife has gone home to tell the neighbors about her meeting with Senator Saltonstall, relating what he said and did and usually reporting on how friendly and easy he was to meet and talk with.

Some politicians have the knack of making friends on a tour such as Saltonstall is undertaking, and many don't. Some would enjoy it, and some would consider it a tedious, tiresome task that would not produce enough results to justify the work that went into it.

Saltonstall is one of the few who apparently not only enjoys such an effort but can make it pay political dividends. It could well be that one of the secrets of his remarkable political success may be found in the easy informality with which he meets and greets voters in both political parties.

The senior Massachusetts Senator also is equally at home in a Democratic or Republican district.

There wasn't the same atmosphere this time, or the same efforts to pull out the crowds and fire their enthusiasm. It stopped raining only a very short time before Ike reached Boston. And yet the crowds that waited along the way to greet him and wave to him were extremely large.

It's quite possible that there may have been some decline in President Eisenhower's popularity. No man who won election by the tremendous plurality which he rolled up could hope to deal with controversial issues and satisfy everyone who voted for him.

People with conflicting ideas on important matters marked crosses or turned voting machine levers beside Ike's name on election day, and it would be impossible for him to do things the way all of them feel they should be done.

Under those conditions some drop in Ike's popularity is practically inevitable. Yet, there aren't any signs of any widespread dissatisfaction with his administration. Certainly, his visit here for the $100-a-plate Republican dinner did not indicate that any substantial number of people have turned away from him.

On the contrary, the political weather-vanes indicate that President Eisenhower is still tremendously popular and that any defection in his strength is extremely small when measured against the background of the terrific endorsement he received 10½ months ago.

Where President Eisenhower may be losing some slight portion of the support he received last November, the impression gained from the guests at the G.O.P. fund-raising dinner was that Governor Herter is building his political strength and that he is more popular today than when he assumed office.

That doesn't mean, of course, that Herter is more popular than Ike. The President carried Massachusetts by a little over 200,000 votes, the Governor by slightly more than 12,000 last autumn.

It may be that James M. Curley was unintentionally responsible for some of Saltonstall's popularity among Democrats, for when Curley made his often-quoted quip about Saltonstall's "South Boston face," a lot of Democrats immediately decided there was nothing whatever wrong with having a South Boston face.

The fabulous Curley, incidentally, is now planning to run next year against Saltonstall, into whose lap he unwittingly dropped thousands of Democratic votes, and it would be a strange turn of political events if by any chance he should get the Democratic nomination and be Saltonstall's opponent next November. Even at Curley's age there are not too many Democrats who could defeat him in a primary.

Whether Saltonstall is planning to trek through South Boston is not known. But if he does, he is likely to take a lot of good-natured joshing that will cover a feeling of warm affection for the Yankee Senator who next year will be standing for reelection.

Some of our political scholars have been attempting to compare the receptions President Eisenhower received on his visits to Boston this week and last week and use them as a measuring stick to determine whether his popularity is ebbing.

If they take into consideration all the factors and conditions, as they must in order to draw any sound conclusions, they are not likely to find any signs of a serious drop in Ike's political stock.

The crowds that hailed and cheered him this week weren't as big or as enthusiastic as when he came here on election eve last November to deliver the closing speech of his campaign. But it isn't to be expected that they would be.

His visit last November was the climax to a long campaign that built up over a period of weeks and produced the inevitable synthetic brand of political enthusiasm that reaches its peak on the day and night before election.

What it does mean, in the opinion of persons who came here from all parts of the Commonwealth, is that if the two men were standing for election today, Eisenhower would carry the State by something less than 200,000 votes and Herter by substantially more than 12,000.

There is a generally feeling that Herter has worn well as Governor. The quality that has impressed many people is the Governor's readiness to concede that he isn't infallible, his willingness to admit that he made a mistake and to attempt to rectify it instead of seeking to cover it up or look around for someone else to blame.

While no great rewards have been passed along to deserving Republicans during the Herter regime and many jobs have been abolished rather than filled with party members, the G.O.P. followers almost without exception expressed their satisfaction with the administration Governor Herter is giving the people of Massachusetts.

Because Herter carried the State by so slim a margin and Eisenhower by so great a plurality in the 1952 election, it is quite possible that one may be picking up strength and the other losing it slightly in the inevitable political levelling-off process.

RANDOM CLIPPINGS

Every year in India some 75,000,000 persons suffer from malaria.

Earl Duke, 25, asked a Lorain, Ohio, police officer how to get to Root road. "Take a Broadway bus," advised the officer. Duke apparently took the advice literally. He was arrested a short time later and charged with both intoxication and the theft of a bus.

State prison officials at Nashville, Tenn., reported a few days ago that a member of the convict maintenance gang at the Executive Mansion had been placed in solitary confinement for making applejack in Governor Frank Clement's garage.

Under a new law which became effective Aug. 15, Indians have the right to purchase liquor on the same basis as other citizens. The statute has resulted in a drop in drunkenness among Indians in Montana.

The Leipfert family in Binghamton, N.Y., is up in the air as a result of a strange legal tangle. Their home was in the path of a proposed new State highway so they undertook to move it to a new location. After it was raised onto five-foot blocks by a moving firm, it was discovered they had not obtained permission to truck the dwelling to a new site and that it will take two weeks to get the permit. So they have to use ladders to reach the first floor. Mrs. Leipfert reports that life aloft is a nightmare at their home, "The Moorings" at Stopped by police in Sheboygan, Wis., for speeding while on his way to keep an appointment with Municipal Court Judge Edwin H. Fuhr, Attorney John McLaren was complimented by the judge for his promptness and then fined $5.

As Claire Heffron of Kansas City, Kans., was changing a flat tire on his car, his spare tire rolled out of his hands and into the path of an oncoming motorist who jammed on his brakes, skidded to a stop, picked up the rolling tire and sped away with it.

Butcher Stanley Bowman of Dereham, England, was fined 30 shilling ($4.20) for driving the wrong way down a one-way street, despite his explanation that the reason he had made the mistake was that a frog had hopped into his car and that the resulting panic among his lady passengers "distracted my attention."

After spending almost five hours in Sam's Cafe in Toledo before it closed for the night, Ford G. Belcher and two friends broke into the establishment a half hour later. "We give Sam all our business," they explained to police who obviously were unimpressed by the devotion.

Funeral Services Held Monday For Roland Vernal Maher

Ronald Vernal Maher, for several years associated with The Transcript Publications, and more particularly with the Newton Graphic and Parkway Transcript, died last Friday at the Boston City Hospital after an illness of two months.

Mr. Maher made his home at 81 Penfield street, Roslindale and although afflicted with Muscular Dystrophy, he possessed an ever cheerful disposition and was constantly striving to help others despite his own handicap. For the past several years, although confined to a wheelchair, he kept himself actively occupied by soliciting advertising over the telephone and in the course of his work, he endeared himself to many individuals and firms by his cheerful manner.

Each year in the Spring, he attended the gathering of others similarly afflicted which met in Georgia and he was elected "King" of the nation's shut-ins, an honor richly deserved. In addition, he was one of the founders of the 12½ cent Club, composed mainly of shut-ins, who by contributing this sum each month, created a sufficient fund each year to send small items such as sweets, soap, face cloths, stationery, postage stamps, etc., to old and unfortunate in various institutions.

More Workers Assist Church Fund Auction

Mrs. Lowell V. Coulter, Mrs. Hans Waine, Mrs. John E. Taplin, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Carroll and L. Fabian Bachrach, Jr. are among the additional committee workers who will assist with the Church Building Fund Auction, to be held from 10 o'clock to 4 o'clock this Saturday, September 26, on the west lawn of the First Unitarian Church grounds, 1326 Washington street, West Newton. These are in addition to members of the parish committees, responsible for this event.

In case of inclement weather, the Building Fund Auction will be held indoors in the parish hall, according to the co-chairmen, Mrs. Morris H. Adler and Mrs. Harry E. Raymond. The Auction is the first fall money-raising activity to augment funds necessary to complete the courtyard enclosure structure, for which ground-breaking ceremonies were held May 14. It is hoped that the children's chapel and most of the additional classrooms will be sufficiently completed for the opening of the church school year on Sunday, October 4.

Arthur T. Gregorian, well-known rug connoisseur, of Newton Lower Falls, will be the auctioneer for Saturday's sale of antique furniture, bric-a-brac and other interesting donated articles.

Joseph C. Skinner, chairman of the trustees, will be glad to pick up donations too large for the givers to bring to the parish houses. Mr. Skinner is also in charge of the amplified system for the auction.

Coffee and sandwiches will be available for those attending the auction, with the Coup Club and Jaynes League assisting in the sale of refreshments.

Dr. Robert Burke Higgins Studying Radioisotopes

Two Knoxville medical research workers are enrolled in a two-week course in the techniques of using radioisotopes in medicine, being conducted in Oak Ridge by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

Dr. Robert Burke Higgins, Knoxville urologist, and son of Mrs. William M. Higgins of 41 Cypress street, Newton Centre and Dr. James B. Ely, surgical consultant with the University of Tennessee Therapy Committee, are among more than 100 physicians and medical research workers from throughout the country who are participating in the course. Designed primarily for individuals who have had clinical experience with isotopes, the course consists of lectures, clinics and exhibits of equipment. Lectures in the course have been selected from outstanding authorities in the field.

Radioisotopes, products of the uranium chain reactors, are proving more and more valuable in medicine. While their major successes to date have been in the field of investigating the cause of diseases, they have also become a powerful diagnostic tool. Dr. Higgins is particularly interested in the medical uses of radio active gold and cobalt. Dr. Ely is especially interested in the use of radioisotopes in treatment of thyroid diseases and melanoma.

Dr. Higgins holds A.B. and M.D. degrees from Harvard University. Dr. Ely is a graduate of the University of Tennessee.

Nova Scotians Give $10,000 to Tornado Fund

Governor Herter last week received a grant of $10,000 from the Government of the Province of Nova Scotia for the Worcester Disaster Relief Fund. Presentation, on behalf of Premier Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia, was made by William J. Baxter of Newton in the Governor's office at the State House.

Mr. Baxter informed the Governor that the ten thousand dollar grant was made in remembrance of the "great assistance which Boston and the State generally gave at the time of the Halifax Explosion in 1917."

Mr. Baxter also showed the Governor a copy of a letter from Premier Macdonald, dated September 9, 1953, which contained the following paragraph:

"I am enclosing a cheque of the Province of Nova Scotia in the amount of $10,000, as some assistance to your distressed citizens. We have always been conscious here of our ties with Massachusetts, and the people of Halifax, particularly, remember the great assistance which Boston and the State generally gave at the time of the Halifax explosion in 1917. I hope that this amount will stand as a token of our good will and our sympathy for those who have suffered."

This is no joke, for any and all concerned. . . . A recent new recruit turned up in Fort Meade, Md., with the real but somewhat wonderful name of Pvt. Donald R. Duck.

PAUL A. WILLIAMS

Williams to Seek School Committee Post from Ward 5

Paul A. Williams of 82 Bound Brook road, Newton Highlands, Ward 5, has announced his candidacy for the Newton School Committee.

Williams has lived in Newton since 1940, participating in many community activities. Besides aiding in the drives of the Red Feather, Red Cross, and the YMCA, he was chairman for the raising of funds for the Oak Hill PTA for two years and was program chairman and vice-president of the Weeks Junior High PTA. He has been chairman of Cub Scout work in Oak Hill and at present is chairman of Scout Troop 4A in Newton Highlands. His church affiliation has been with the Newton Highlands Congregational Church, where he has aided with the young people's work and has been chairman of the Board of Deacons. Also he was president of the Newton Highlands Couples Club.

Since 1934 Williams has taught in the Brookline High School, with one year as an exchange teacher in Seattle, Washington. He is a graduate of Mount Hermon School and Brown University, with a Master's degree from Boston University. His father was a graduate of Andover Newton Theological School.

In his campaign, Williams is emphasizing the fact that more and more parents are concerning themselves with the products of our schools. He states that now that Newton has successfully launched its building program, it would be good policy to have on the school committee another member who can interpret the curricula, the instruction, and the education taking place within Newton's beautiful school buildings.

Mrs. Sylvester McGinn, first vice president, reported briefly on the June Conference to be supplemented later by a detailed resume:

Mr. Dangel announced that a P.T.A. conference for delegates will be held this year at the Warren Junior High School at eight o'clock on October 1.

Mr. Gores spoke of the continued growth of our school population.

Ours is the fourth largest school system in Massachusetts.

Eighty new teachers have been added this year, and a pupil enrollment of 14,000 is expected at the close of 1953.

Mr. Gores told of the Kenyon program, which he hopes will be adopted in Newton, which is an experiment in an honors program for fast-traveling students.

This program affords advanced standing in certain subjects and allows students to accomplish four years of work in three years.

Mr. Gores feels that Newton can beat the massiveness of a city approaching a population of 100,000 by preserving the identities of its small villages.

There is a freedom in decentralization, and small groups will keep the city personal.

In the same manner a successful council, made up of individual Parent-Teacher associations, lends great aid to Mr. Nicola Carello, M.A., from Boston University, will teach Italian.

In the Classics Department will be Dr. K. Claude Cirtautas of the University of Breslau, who in 1952-53 had a research fellowship in Classics at Harvard and was for five years representative of the International Red Cross to foreign students in Germany.

Mr. John F. Fitzgibbons, Ph.D., from Georgetown University, will teach Philosophy. Miss Solange Gignac, recently a member of the staff of the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research at Memorial Center, New York City, will be in the Biology Department. Miss Mary Van Vleck, B. Mus. from Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart and holder of a diploma from Plus XII Institute of Fine Arts, Florence, Italy, will teach Music. Miss Marie Mullin, M.A., from Radcliffe, will have classes in History.

Classes in Theology will be taught by Reverend Fathers Maher and McBrien, O.P., both of Providence College.

There will be two important curriculum changes this year. The first is the granting of the B. Mus. degree for which students may now apply. Many of the students of the Newton College School of Liturgical Music, for seven years sponsored by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing, have asked to begin studies leading to this degree. The Bachelor of Science degree will also be offered.

The major in the field of Education will also be offered for the first time during the coming year. Specialization will be in the field of secondary education. The National Teachers' Examination will be required and students completing the program will receive a Teaching Certificate from the College.

Also new this year is a program of Grant-in-Aid, whereby students who have not won or cannot maintain a scholarship will be able to reduce their tuition by doing clerical or secretarial work, assistance in the Library and at the college switchboard, etc. No student will be allowed to work more than fifteen hours a week.

"This machine," Dr. Mishkin said, "will be of tremendous value to Technion — something that will be vital for teaching in the field of electrical engineering and research."

"On behalf of Technion I wish to thank Mr. Horlick and the other United States industrialists who have taken such an active interest in the technical education in Israel — the education that will eventually spell the difference between self-sufficiency and outside support for Israel."

"This gift is unusual, also, in that Mr. Horlick saw first hand the lack of vital equipment in Technion and the need for rebuilding the institute on its new campus to accommodate the thousands of students clamoring for technical education in Israel."

Newton will then be notified by mail of the slate selected by their representatives.

President Vitti stated that this process has proved very effective in helping qualified persons to be elected to office.

Early Days of St. Mary's Society

The first Episcopal service was held in the village schoolhouse in the autumn of 1811 at the suggestion of Mr. Elbridge Ware. Mr. Cotting, a Layreader, came from Dedham to lead the services which were held at intervals during the following winter. On April 7, 1812, the congregation formed themselves into a Society of Protestant Episcopalian, electing Solomon Curtis and Thomas Duran as Wardens. The schoolhouse being inadequate for the increasing number of worshippers, a large hall in the old yellow house at the corner of Concord and Washington Streets was secured and furnished with fixtures necessary for the celebration of our worship. Here the first baptisms and marriages recorded in our records were performed. Services were conducted by candidates for Holy Orders, and Sacraments were administered by Reverend Asa Eaton of Christ Church, Boston, and Reverend S. J. Gardiner of Trinity Church, Boston.

In April 1813, the Parish voted to petition the Legislature for an Act of Incorporation. The petition was signed by thirty-three men who are justly remembered as the founders of St. Mary's Parish. The Act passed both Houses and was signed by Governor William Winthrop, June 16, 1813, and the church became known officially as St. Mary's in the Town of Newton.

The corner-stone was laid September 29, 1813, the Feast of St. Michael and All Angels, by the Grand Lodge of Masons of Massachusetts from Boston, and the local Order, of which many of the men of the Parish were members. The visit of the Grand Lodge and the accomplishment of the work, with all its symbolic beauty, marked the day as an occasion of no common order.

This was the first Episcopal Church to be built west of Boston after the American Revolution. The cost of the building, exclusive of the land and the furniture, was five thousand dollars.

The Sunday following the dedication, two adults and eight children were baptized and in the afternoon ten persons received the Apostolic Rite of Confirmation. The class was personally prepared by Bishop Griswold, who remained in the village after the dedication for that purpose.

Within the church the old box pews remained the same as when first built and owned by the heads of the various families. No two pews are just the same, the differences being found in the angles and shapes of the bookrests and bookshelves, arm-rests and the ends of some of the pews, and the many styles and shapes of the kneeling stools; all of which would indicate that each pew was built as its owner might desire. The seats were cushioned, and the floor of each pew was covered with a carpet of various colors. Governor Winthrop was at one time an owner of a pew. Each pew bears its original number.

cooperation with the American Foundation for Political Education.

Running ten weeks, and designed primarily to develop each individual's own informed opinion on political affairs, the series will be based on selected readings from the world's major political thinkers and led informally by two co-leaders, Mrs. Elmer Riegelhaupt of Newton, and Mr. Morton Godine of Brookline.

What causes war? How can it be prevented? Can we have both freedom and security? What should we expect from our American foreign policy? These are some of the questions to be explored.

The program was first developed by the American Foundation for Political Education in Chicago six years ago. Now nation-wide and underwritten by the Fund for Adult Education, established by the Ford Foundation, it is administered in eastern Massachusetts by the Greater Boston World Politics Committee and the United Council on World Affairs, under the sponsorship of the World Peace Foundation and Boston University.

Here in Newton it is also sponsored by the Newton Public Library. Membership is open to the general public, and there are no educational requirements, but for the sake of good general discussion the group must be limited to 32. The initial fee of $12, payable at the time of registration, 8 p.m., Sept. 29, at the Newton Center Branch Library, covers not only the entire series, but also a set of three books of the readings.

Despite Cessation of Conflict In Korea, Blood Need Urgent

In view of the cessation of hostilities in Korea, the Newton Chapter of the American National Red Cross wishes to inform the citizens of Newton regarding the continuing needs of the National Blood Program.

The Chapter has been assured of the need of defense blood in quantities sufficient to keep all 45 Regional Centers busy during the entire 1953-1954 fiscal year. In order to meet its quota of 60,000 pints for defense and 90,000 pints to assist in meeting the ever increasing requirements in civilian hospitals, the Massachusetts Program will continue to operate four Bloodmobile units and its Center at 314 Dartmouth street, Boston. Locally, this means that no reduction in the number of Bloodmobile visits to Newton is anticipated. Between September and July twenty visits have been planned.

In making this announcement, Mr. Maxwell P. Gaddis, Chairman of the Blood Program for the Newton Red Cross, said "The past, present and future all prove that the National Blood Program is here to stay. In addition to the continuing vital use of this precious fluid for our hospitalized servicemen and for reserve defense purposes, there is an ever increasing need on the local level. We are receiving more and more emergency calls for blood for local civilian use. More and more Newton people must be made aware of the Blood Program, their need of it, and their personal responsibility to it."

It is also recognized that, with advances in medicine and surgery and in the science of the uses of blood, there is an ever increasing need for whole blood to save human lives. According to medical authorities, we are only in the first stages of new and important uses for blood derivatives.

The end of the shooting in Korea has reduced the quantity of blood required for the Armed Forces, but it does not in any way lessen the need for other useful purposes."

The next Bloodmobile Visit will be on September 30 at the Auburndale Club in Auburndale. Please call Red Cross, LA 7-6000, for your appointment.

Radio Series on How Prayer Heals

A new series of weekly 15-minute radio programs illustrating the power of prayer in everyday life will be released September 19 by the Christian Science church, it is announced today.

Each program presents a first-hand, documentary narrative in which a guest tells of his own religious experience — how his problem was solved or how he experienced physical healing through prayer in Christian Science.

The thoroughly verified accounts are being tape recorded from persons of many different walks of life from all over the United States, Canada, Europe, Africa, Australia and other parts of the world. Following the narrative a short inspirational message will be presented on how the listener can solve his own problems through prayer.

The programs — carrying the series title "How Christian Science Heals" — are produced by The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, according to an announcement by Paul R. Carmack, Assistant Committee on Publication for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Newton.

They will be heard on about 600 radio stations throughout the United States, Canada and Australia, and at points in Latin America, Africa, Europe, and New Zealand.

The musical portion of the program to be heard in coming weeks present former Metropolitan Opera Association tenor, Frederik Jager, accompanied by Ruth Barrett Phelps at the console of the great 13,383-pipe organ of The Mother Church. Commentator in the opening series is Harry C. Browne, for many years member of The Christian Science Board of Leadership and a former president of The Mother Church.

The Governor's Day

Few citizens realize the current of human interests which flows through the Governor's office.

Along with important matters of State runs the ebb and flow of the problems, joys and sorrows of the average citizen.

Conscientious letters calling the Governor's attention to matters for improvement, occasionally a resentful letter when, perhaps, legislation interfered with personal interests, but mostly warm-hearted, impulsive letters of approval or helpful suggestions made the Governor's mailbag a fascinating one. Visitors from all over the world add their colorful interest to a Governor's day and his visits to various parts of the State turn up many interesting anecdotes.

Since people are always interested in other people, this column hopes to share with you the human side of the news from your Governor's Office.

Some time ago, the Governor was presented with a confiscated sword of a Japanese officer. Later the Governor learned to whom it belonged and when Mr. Obato, governor of Fukui, Prefecture, Japan, visited Boston Governor Hertler gave him the sword to return to the owner. Yesterday, a letter of thanks arrived from T. Kondo. It said in part . . . "My favorite sword that I had left in Korea eight years ago . . . How glad I was to hear that my lost sword, never dreamed of being had again in my hand, would be returned to me . . . Now the sword is surely in my hand and I'll keep it forever as the memories of the tragic war and the warm heart of the people of your country."

The Governor has received many letters of appreciation for his Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur message. Perry Edward Nussbaum, Pittsfield Rabbi, wrote: "This is the first time in a twenty-year ministry that a governor of any state where I have resided took such a note of a Jewish holiday."

Governor Hertler dropped in to the five o'clock party in Attorney General George Fingold's office given for Harold Welch, chief clerk, who is retiring after fifty years of service in the Department. The Welches are a youthful appearing couple. Mr. Welch was only 14 years old when he started his State career as a messenger at $4.00 per week. Pretty Mrs. Welch said she didn't know how her husband would take retirement . . . he's so active. "It will be all right in the summer and fall, when he can be outdoors," she said, "but in the winter . . . I don't know. He's never had any hobby but his work." We all enjoyed the party. It was "chipped in for" by the office personnel and they certainly did it up in grand style for the Welches.

The Governor has been very much touched by the concern of persons in all parts of the country about his arthritis. Ever since a national magazine mentioned it, letters have poured in, suggesting home-tried remedies.

From Oregon to Florida, Hawaii, New Mexico and Switzerland, as well as from Massachusetts, they came to Mrs. Hertler and to the Governor. One letter from Texas read in part: "I've never felt more ridiculous writing a perfect stranger about her husband's arthritis . . . but I am sure God meant us to be helpful to each other . . . People are kind."

One correspondent was faced with a problem. After moving to a certain community because she wanted its superior education opportunities for her children, she discovered that the apartment was not in the desired half. Although this was not within the province of the Governmental Office, one of the staff suggested that she exchange apartment with a childless couple on the other side of the house. At last reports an amicable exchange was being arranged.

So many women write in requesting Mrs. Hertler's favorite recipes. Mrs. Hertler is really an excellent cook. Here is one of her desserts which I think is wonderful because it can be "whipped up" in a jiffy and is delicious.

CHOCOLATE DESSERT

1 bar semi-sweet chocolate
6 egg yolks
6 egg whites
3 tablespoons of water
A few drops of vanilla

Beat the yolks and whites separately until stiff. Grate chocolate and put in sauce pan with water. Melt over double boiler. Add well-beaten egg yolks and vanilla. Then fold in well-beaten whites. Put in icebox and let stand for three hours.

Residential Division of Red Feather Campaign Meets

A meeting of the leaders in the Residential Division for the 1954 Red Feather Campaign was held at Usen Auditorium, Newton-Wellesley Hospital, last Monday night. Henry J. Wilson, 128 Fairway Drive, West Newton, recently appointed Chairman of the Division, presided at the meeting.

David Berkman, Newton Campaign Chairman, told the Residential Village Chairmen, Assistant Chairmen, and Majors, who were present, that in terms of the depreciated dollar Newton contributors are giving less to Red Feather services than they did in the years prior to World War II even though Newton's population has increased substantially. He urged the Residential leaders to promote a realistic approach to the Campaign this year and to endeavor to get increased giving so that present needed services won't have to be curtailed.

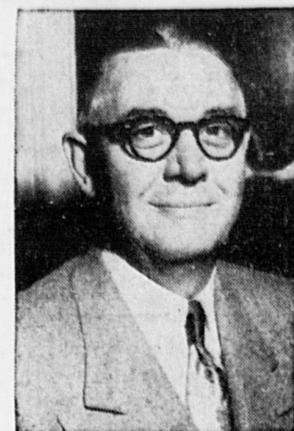

Residential Chairman Wilson asked for an overflow attendance at the Residential Kick-Off Dinner on October 22, and for the essential preliminary meetings. Assistant Campaign Chairman, Benjamin Shattuck, spoke of the publicity and promotional plans for the Campaign.
